Castro Regime Says They Made Agreement in Florida

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's government announced today it is holding six Americans accused of sailing to Cuba Jan. 7 to join counterrevolutionary forces here.

The announcement said all six were seized in Havana the day after they made a pact in Florida with a Castro foe, former Sen. Rolando Masferrer, to join other dissidents trying to overthrow Castro's regime.

Several Americans were executed by Castro firing squads late last year after they were captured with "invasion" groups in Cuba.

6 Men Identified

The announcement identified the six as George R. Beck, 24, son of George Beck, Norton, Mass.; Tommy L. Baker, 28, son of James Baker, Dothan, Ala.; Donald Joe Green, 28, son of James Green, Clover, S. C.; James E. Beane, 34, son of Anderson Beane, route 1, Cedar Falls, N. C.; Alfred Eugene Gibbons, 30, son of rural Durham, N. C., former aviation mechanic, and Leonard Louis Schmidt, 21, son of Leonard Schmidt, Chicago.

The account said the six sailed from Marathon Key, Fla., with a refueling stop at Key West Jan. 6 after undergoing training at Masferrer's anti-Castro training camp in Florida.

New Decees Issued

"Because of poor navigation and bad weather," the announcement said, "the group, which came equipped with arms, missed its intended landfall at Pinar del Rio where it had been ordered to join insurgent groups, and decided to enter Havana harbor after throwing overboard all arms, munitions and equipment."

"At first the six Americans claimed they came to help the Cuban government repulse an in-

Dooley, Jungle Doctor in Laos, Dies of Cancer

Succumbs in His Sleep Day After His 34th Birthday

NEW YORK (AP)—Thomas Dooley, lion-hearted young doctor who battled disease in the Laos jungle even when he himself became ravaged by crippling cancer, died in his sleep Wednesday night at Memorial Hospital.

Death came just one day after his 34th birthday.

Dooley, brought to the hospital Dec. 27 wearing a brace from shoulder to hips, insisted he was going to continue his work if his "iron maiden" enabled him to get around — and characteristically added:

"I am not going to quit. I will continue to guide and lead my hospitals until my back, my brain, my blood and my bones collapse."

He spent a year of premedical training at the University of Notre Dame before serving (1944-46) as a Navy medical corpsman attached to the Marines.

Studied in Paris

Upon leaving service, he studied at the Sorbonne in Paris for a year. A native of St. Louis, in 1953 he was graduated from the St. Louis University School of Medicine.

Dooley rejoined the Navy as a lieutenant (j.g.) and took his in-

Embezzler Used Part Of Cash to Buy Shares

SHELDON, Iowa (AP)—Part of the assets held by Burnice Iverson Geiger, 58, who had admitted a $2-million bank embezzlement here, went into the purchase of 130,000 shares of Northern Biochemical Corp. of Sheldon, officials of that company said today.

This fledgling industry, organized about a year ago to deal in the manufacture and sale of special animal feeds, started with $8,000 but is now capitalized at $500,000.

Mrs. Geiger, assistant cashier of the Sheldon National Bank until it collapsed Tuesday, had held a controlling interest in the chemical firm.

Only Part of Funds

The extent of her holdings in the company was the first concrete figure turned up during an investigation of what she did with the $2,126,859 defalcation that resulted in the closing of the bank. Held in jail at Sioux City, the town's prominent citizen and philanthropist, has remained silent.

Although substantial, the investment in the chemical firm stock, represents only a part of the embezzled funds. Mrs. Geiger paid for the stock in excess of $130,000 with blocks at $1.08 and $1.16 a share.

Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late president and economic consultant for Northern Biochemical, said Mrs. Geiger bought about one third of the corporation's capital stock of 350,000 shares.

Controlled Firm

Records indicate that in the early months of the corporation, outstanding shares totaled only about 200,000 and Mrs. Geiger held 65 per cent. The firm also has two subsidiaries.

Roosevelt, speaking at a mid-night news conference after a lengthy meeting of the company directors, said he owns no stock in Northern Biochemical and will have to wait to see if "this will be a good investment." He said, however, that he thought the corporation had a bright future.

The State Securities Department in Des Moines reported that Biochemical stock has not been registered in Iowa and therefore it is illegal to sell it in this state. Securities officials said they had

Harbor Strike May Bar New York Rail Service

New Haven, N. Y. Central Roads Cease Long Distance Operations in Metropolis

NEW YORK (AP)—Striking harbor craft crewmen threw pickets at giant Pennsylvania Station today in a fast-spreading action which could knock out virtually all New York rail service. Such a tieup would quickly pose staggering travel woes for more than 200,000 commuters.

Half this number already were scrambling frantically for other transportation through a shutdown of New York Central and New Haven Railroad operations at the city's other big terminal, Grand Central.

The two railroads also shut off all long distance passenger and freight operations into New York. Bus and highway jams grew along with tempers—as commuters from suburban Westchester County and Connecticut north of the city struggled to get to work by makeshift travel arrangements. Some gave up and took hotel rooms in Manhattan for the duration.

Sailors Involved

Paradoxically, it was a mere handful of men who created such turmoil for so many. They are not trainmen, but ferry and tug-boat crewmen on vessels operated by 11 railroads.

In another example of the complexities of life in the metropolis, they were able to muster a fantastic strength behind their contract demands by picketing railroad facilities.

Other railroad workers, who operate trains, refused to cross the sailors' picket lines.

Two major railroads use Pennsylvania Station—the Pennsylvania itself and the Long Island. The Long Island operates the biggest commuter service in the world. Despite pickets at the station, the two railroads reported they

Pope John Gives Cardinal's Hat to St. Louis Prelate

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII today conferred the cardinal's red hat on Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis, Mo., and three other new princes of the Roman Catholic Church.

The public consistory in St. Peter's Basilica, high point of four days of ceremony that swelled the College of Cardinals to 85 members, was attended by 29 prelates, archbishops and bishops, and about 10,000 spectators.

Cardinal Ritter was the first to get his hat. As he knelt before the papal throne and two attendants held the broad-brimmed hat—or galero—over his head, Pope John intoned:

"For the praise of almighty God and the honor of the holy apostolic see, receive the red hat, the special badge of a cardinal's rank. By this you are to understand that you must show your self fearless, even to the shedding of blood, in making our holy faith, by the dean and chapter of Canterbury, usually a mere formality. President-elect Roosevelt in 1933 in Christian people, and by promoting the welfare of the Roman church. In the name of the Father, of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

5,000 Keeping Watch To Guard Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Security precautions as rigid as any ever imposed in this security-conscious capital will be directed at thwarting any potential assassin in Friday's inaugural crowds.

About one million persons are expected. The total security force will top 5,000.

Secret Service agents will stand on every rooftop, peer down every manhole, and scan every human cluster along the inaugural route between the Capitol and the White House.

Other agents will be hidden beneath the special platforms on which the incoming president will stand—at the capitol where John F. Kennedy will take the oath and at the White House where he will watch the inaugural parade.

Preparations for inaugural security began under Secret Service coordination soon after last November's election. While fewer than 200 Secret Service agents will be involved, they will get help from several thousand Washington police, hundreds of servicemen and a team of plainclothesmen from Washington and other cities.

Count On Spectators

The Secret Service is also counting on spectators to help protect Kennedy.

"If anyone in the crowd should make a threatening move," said Chief Inspector Michael Torina, "you can be sure someone near by would have the courage and alertness to act."

Eve of Inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The atmosphere in Washington today is a good start.

The "transfer of power" period seems to have gone off unusually well.

In 1952, the transition between Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman was not a happy one.

But when he was questioned about the Kennedy transition operation at his news conference Wednesday, Eisenhower said: "I think it is going splendidly, and as a matter of fact, there are no complaints on our part."

Capital Excited

Traditionally, an incoming president enjoys a honeymoon with Congress, a period when the legislators are disposed to be as generous with him as possible. Soon or later, of course, it ends.

Eight years ago at this time, the Washington wisecrack was: "When does the honeymoon begin?"

Ike, Kennedy Have Talk on U. S. Problems

Incoming, Outgoing Officials in 3-Hour White House Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and President-elect John F. Kennedy canvassed the nation's major problems in a White House conference today lasting more than three hours.

When he came out of the conference, Kennedy told reporters that he and three of his top appointees had had "the opportunity to get the thinking of the President and the responsible officers of the government on some of the major problems facing the United States."

Kennedy, bronzed and smiling, was asked how he feels with his inauguration as President scheduled tomorrow.

"Very good," he replied.

A reporter asked if he was excited.

"Interested," Kennedy replied with a broad grin.

A joint statement issued by the press secretaries of the outgoing and incoming presidents said that world areas discussed at the conference included the Far East, Africa, Western Europe and the Caribbean.

Eisenhower and Kennedy met alone first in the President's office. Then they met in the cabinet room with the incoming and outgoing secretaries of state, treasury and defense for continuation of their discussions.

The statement said that during their discussions, the president-elect and the incoming cabinet members "were brought up to date on a number of matters affecting the security of the United States."

Policy Committee Of GOP Opposed to Larger Rules Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican policy committee today unanimously opposed a Democratic-backed plan to increase the rules committee membership to 15.

The policy group, composed of party leaders, will make its recommendation to a conference of all house Republicans early next week.

All but four of the 27 members of the committee attended the closed-door session at which a resolution opposing "the packing of the rules committee" was adopted.

House Democrats at a caucus yesterday approved the plan to increase the rules committee membership.

The plan to boost the rules group membership from 12 to 15 was proposed by Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas as a move to break a coalition threshold on legislation.

Seek Red Cross Aid For Deposed Leader

U.N. Command in Congo Says Lumumba's Transfer to Katanga Jail Is 'Internal Matter'

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (AP) — The U.N. command today said Patrice Lumumba's transfer to a Katanga jail was an internal Congo matter, but it appealed to local authorities to place the deposed premier under Red Cross protection.

A U.N. spokesman said Ian Berendsen, the U. N. civilian representative in Katanga, called on provincial President Moise Tshombe and told him "the U.N. realizes that Lumumba's transfer to Katanga is an internal affair of the Congo."

"But Berendsen in his talk with Tshombe advised him to contact the International Red Cross to ensure that Lumumba was well treated," the spokesman said. "It is now up to Tshombe to deal with Red Cross headquarters in Geneva if he wants, but no one can force him to do this."

Report Beating

The spokesman added that a Swedish U.N. officer had reported no U.N. personnel had been able to see whether Lumumba had been beaten up when he was taken off the plane at Elisabethville airport. "This officer" the spokesman went on, "said U.N. personnel saw the arrival from afar and were not denying that Lumumba was beaten up."

Tshombe took foreign correspondents to task for reporting that Lumumba and two political associates transferred with him had been severely assaulted. He denied the reports.

However, Swedish officers at the airport when Lumumba came in told newsmen he had been badly beaten up. Swedish sentries near the hangar where the plane pulled up confirmed this and said they were near by when it happened. Their stories were substantiated by Belgian airport personnel who said they saw the assaults.

Wife Arrives

Lumumba is now in jail at Jadotville, 65 miles from Elisabethville. Congo president Joseph Kasavubu ordered his transfer from the Thysville Army camp near Leopoldville after the deposed premier last weekend got free for a few hours.

In Leopoldville, a U.N. spokesman said Lumumba's wife arrived barefoot at U.N. headquarters there yesterday to plead for her husband's safety. She was told the United Nations no longer takes responsibility for her husband's protection and has not done so for some time.

CAUSE OF DISEASE APPROACHED FROM NEW ANGLE

In 1895 D. D. Palmer discovered an entirely new principle. The new discovery was called Chiropractic. He advanced the theory that there was a continuous mental impulse flow from the brain over the nervous system to all parts of the body controlling and regulating its every function. This principle is no longer a theory. Throughout the intervening years Chiropractic research has forged ahead with the very latest instrument for measuring brain waves has proven the principle laid down in the early days.

Medical workers have been slow to grasp the importance of the nervous system's relation to disease; at present there are 680 medical scientific workers, 11 medical research institutions and 267 medical publications all researching into the human physiological side of the impulse, nerve-energy discovery of Chiropractic. The research workers foresee a "new" era in medicine. In the meantime, lives are being saved and health restored to millions through the application of Chiropractic, the "new discovery".

Club Likes Lemmon's Clothes, but Not What He Says About Them

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Men's Apparel Club of California likes everything about Jack Lemmon's clothes, but not everything he says about them.

The club had just named the actor the best-dressed man in the movies Wednesday when he confided to news photographers that he himself had designed the suit he was wearing.

"No, no," groaned club president Allen Mathews. "Say you didn't..."

"But I did," insisted Lemmon.

Mathews put his hands over his face.

The whole idea of the award is to play up ready-made suits—not to get men to suit themselves.

Thousands Jam Reception for Vice President

Johnson, Wife Shake Hands at Double Time Rate

WASHINGTON (AP)— Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson had the biggest reception of his political career last night — and he shook hands in double-time to keep up with it.

Thousands jammed the street outside and the corridors of the Statler-Hilton Hotel in a teeming crush to get to a big Texas wingding — the biggest thing so far in pre-inaugural partying.

House speaker Sam Rayburn and the Texas State Society of Washington invited 6,000 guests at $5 apiece to the affair.

Good Start

President-elect John F. Kennedy got the party off to a good start with a 12-minute stint in the receiving line, flanked by yellow roses.

Johnson confided to the president-elect that he has lost 20 pounds since the election on a strict diet.

In the lineup were incoming secretary of state Dean Rusk, secretary of the interior Stewart L. Udall and secretary of labor Arthur J. Goldberg, ex-president Harry Truman, his wife, Bess, and daughter, Margaret Truman Daniel.

Rusk was summarily ordered to move along by a policeman on receiving line duty who didn't recognize him. He got a shove as well, but took it all with a quiet smile.

Johnson shook hands for almost 2½ hours, perspiring but game and smiling to the end.

Texas Sandwiches

Mrs. Johnson, who had come from an afternoon of handshaking at an inaugural reception for distinguished ladies at the National Gallery of Art, held forth for about an hour in the receiving line.

The party spread over the first floor and featured 16 bars and 9 buffet tables serving Texas roast beef sandwiches.

"It's a crime," one woman said as she watched Johnson using a hand-over-hand technique to speed up the line of hand-shakers.

There was even a lady who insisted "How about a kiss?" and Johnson complied.

Toward the end Johnson propelled the line forward in double time, using both hands and virtually pulling people past him. No one seemed to mind in the friendly atmosphere.

Whiskey Helps Knit Broken Bones, Says Kansas Specialist

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A highball may be just the thing for someone recovering from a bone fracture, says a University of Kansas expert.

Dr. Leonard F. Peltier told a regional group of the American College of Surgeons Wednesday that alcohol helps prevent formation of dangerous fatty clots in the bloodstream.

Such clots tend to form in fracture cases, explained Peltier, a professor of orthopedics.

He urged an ounce of whiskey every four hours for four or five days in fracture cases.

Gunman Kills Student, Wounds Professor, 40

Police Have No Tangible Leads in University of California Shooting

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — An intensive hunt was pressed today for a stocky gunman with bushy hair who killed a brilliant University of California graduate student and wounded an English professor late Wednesday.

Fatally wounded by a sawed-off shotgun blast in the back was Stephen Mann Thomas, 29, member of a pioneer ranching family at Ukiah, Calif.

He was a teaching assistant to Prof. Thomas F. Parkinson, 40, who was shot in the face as he arose from his desk in his quiet office on the second floor of Dwinelle Hall.

Without Warning

Parkinson and Thomas had been in conference after classes. The younger man's back was to the open door when the hatless gunman entered and, without warning, fired twice with the double-barreled weapon.

Birdshot from the second blast didn't hit Parkinson full in the face. But it ripped away part of his jaw and blasted out a window behind him. The student writhed on the floor with a gaping hole in his back. Two empty 12 gauge shotgun shells were ejected onto the floor.

Two professors in a nearby office, Brendan O'Hehir and Ralph W. Radar, rushed into the corridor. The slayer ran toward them brandishing the shotgun.

"Outta the way," he said grimly, "or I'll kill you."

Then he darted past them, down the stairs and fled out the main entrance. Another English professor, Gardner D. Stout, caught a glimpse of the gunman as he ran past a corridor poster advertising a French Quaker film entitled: "We Are All Murderers."

"I never saw the man before," Stout told police.

Relatives of the victims were at a loss for any possible motive for the shootings.

No Tangible Leads

"We have no tangible leads. We can't learn of any more."

Thomas died in Herrick Memorial Hospital an hour and a half after the shooting. He had been studying for his doctorate in English. He already held masters degrees in fine arts (Iowa, 1957) and English (California, 1959).

Parkinson, a native of San Francisco, is recognized as an outstanding poet.

It was the second campus slaying in slightly more than six months. A pretty coed, Sonya Hoff, 21, was shot in the head in the library July 13. A jury returned a verdict of first degree murder against a Moslem convert, Mohammed Abdullah, 21, about the time of the latest shooting.

Three Teenage Boys Killed

Highway Death Toll Raised to 4 Over Last Year's Total

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three teenaged boys were killed Wednesday night when their automobile crashed in flames near Kenosha. Their deaths brought Wisconsin's 1961 highway traffic toll to 42, compared with 38 on this date a year ago.

Walter Setliff, 19, of Zion, Ill.; John Harvill, 17, and his brother, James, 13, both of Kenosha, were killed Wednesday night when a car driven by Setliff went off the Lakeshore Road about three miles south of Kenosha at the bridge over Barnes Creek, skidded 30 feet onto the ice and then caught fire.

Authorities had to use acetylene torches to extricate the bodies from the burned wreckage. The boys were on their way home after taking part in a roller skating outing at Zion.

Mrs. Anna Quince, 49, of South Beloit, Ill., was killed earlier Wednesday when the car in which she was riding swerved to avoid hitting a child and crashed into a utility pole in the city of Beloit. Two other persons were injured.

Ike Anxious to Escape Tension of Presidency; Longs to Rest, Relax

Half-Century of Public Service Ends at Friday Noon Ceremony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two fits of command and the presweeks ago President Eisenhower, dency. He now leaves the vast exwas visited in the White House ecutive machinery of government, by his old army friend, Gen. Omar, a top personal staff of 20 and N. Bradley, now a corporate exscores of subordinates. After Friday, he will have only two or ecutive.

"Brad," the President of the three people on his staff to call on for help.

He goes from a choice of airlike planes (prop, jet or helicopter), a special kind of emphasis, a trains, naval ships and cars to his yearning, an envy, a vicarious Gettysburg farm, where the Eisenhousers have one car (a 1956 Chrysler limousine), one station wagon and two jeeps.

He goes from the immense power and prestige of the White House to a farm in Pennsylvania where, despite continuing fame and relative comfort, a man's ego will have to make its own private adjustment.

And the President said, marvelling, "that must be wonderful!"

Other Emotions

The incident, aides and associates agree, is the best single mirror of Dwight D. Eisenhower's mood in the last days of his administration. He is about to close out a half century of public service and 20 years of awesome burden, and he can't wait. He has been counting the days.

He leaves with a variety of other emotions but the overriding one appears to approach relief. He hungers to relax and escape tension. He longs for the luxury, denied him most of the past 20 years, of living without fear that a mistake could imperil a civilization or nation or army or single platoon of men.

He would now like to be able to decide suddenly to go to a ball game without fuss, without galvanizing 50 people into action. He would like, too, to be able to wander through a super market without commotion. He is tired of commotion and curious about supermarkets.

What will he miss most? He will miss, we are told, the fringe bene-

See Slim Chance for Highway Changes

Proposals Like That of Nelson Have Been Defeated Before

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The most sensitive proposal submitted by Gov. Gaylord Nelson in his general second term program to the legislature Wednesday was his demand for a drastic shake-up of the big and powerful state highway administration.

First reactions around the statehouse indicated that the governor has only a slim chance to achieve the abolition of the traditional three member highway commission arrangement and the substitution of a single director with sole responsibility for the execution of the huge budget of highway spending.

Such proposals have been entered in the legislative hopper in the past by governors with party control of the legislative branch. They failed. It is unlikely that Nelson will be more successful were continuing operations normally this morning. It was anybody's guess as to whether they could continue. The Long Island during the night started court action in an effort to halt the picketing.

Rockefeller Acts

Meanwhile, as federal mediators reported that new proposals in the dispute gave rise to some optimism, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller personally waded into the situation by summoning both sides to his office.

"We've got to get this situation straightened out," he declared.

"Rockefeller asserted that the labor dispute was 'one of the most serious strike situations in the city in a long time.' In addition to commuter problems, he said, it could eventually hamper the flow of food into the city.

"Tomorrow's inauguration of President Kennedy in Washington even got mixed up in the troubles here.

Shutdown Delayed

It was generally believed that the striking unions might be delaying a shutdown effort against the Pennsylvania Railroad until after the ceremonies, so as to permit trains to carry New Yorkers there.

There was no immediate confirmation, but the chairman of a non-striking Trainmen's Union said his group intended to keep working Pennsylvania trains during the inauguration period.

"We do not intend to be a party to anything that will embarrass the newly elected President of the United States," he said.

"After that, he added, however, his men would re-evaluate the entire situation.

Baptists Contemplate Purchase of Land

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The purchase of 5,000 acres of Liberian land for American Negroes is contemplated by the executive board of the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc.

"The Negro religious organization named a commission Wednesday to meet with Liberian officials March 14 to discuss the purchase.

Dr. J. H. Jackson of Chicago, president of the 5-million member convention, said the land would be divided into small farms and M.D., of the Air Force's Air Research and Development Command, received the Melbourne W. Space Scientists Get Research Awards

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Two of the nation's leading space scientists Wednesday night received awards from the American Astronautical Society in recognition of outstanding contributions in the field of space research.

Dr. Homer E. Newell, deputy director of space flight programs for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, received the society's 1960 space flight award.

Brig. Gen. Don D. Flickinger, of the Air Force's Air Research and Development Command, received the Melbourne W. Berian natives Christian living Boynton award for space medicine and modern farming methods.

Protestant Churchmen Rap Cardinal's Views On Aid to Education

NEW YORK (AP)—A prominent leading Cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church would attack a position to which President-elect Kennedy pledged himself repeatedly before nationwide audiences during his successful campaign for the presidency: Not to use public funds for parochial schools.

Cardinal Spellman stirred a controversy with Protestant churchmen by asserting such federal aid would be unfair unless church-run schools received it along with public schools.

In a statement issued here yesterday the Rev. W. Hubert Porter, associate general secretary of the American Baptist Convention, said of the situation: "It is most unfortunate that a Report Reds Asking For More Top Jobs In U.N. Organization

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times said today Russia has asked the United Nations to place Soviet citizens in at least 50 key posts and promote other Russians now on the U.N. staff.

A dispatch from U.N. headquarters by Times correspondent Kathleen Tellich said the Soviet Union sent Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld a communication spelling out the grade and number of each post it wants.

The Russians have long complained that allocation of U.N. jobs is stacked up in favor of the West, with too many Americans in top posts. They headed up their list with a request for two additional posts of the rank of undersecretary, the next level below Hammarskjöld.

The Russians now have one under secretary, Georgy P. Arkadev, who is in charge of political and security council affairs. Three Americans hold that rank or its equivalent—Ralph J. Bunche, Hammarskjöld's a c e trouble shooter; Andrew W. Cordier, adviser to the secretary-general; and David B. Vaughan, director of general services.

Fire Threat Eased, Port Opened Again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Coast Guard today re-opened the Port of Philadelphia which had been closed for seven hours as a precaution against fire after 7,000 gallons of a flammable chemical spilled into the Delaware River from a pipeline shattered by a four years.

Chief Petty Officer William Taylor announced the port was re-opened at 4:30 a.m. after an inspection showed that most of the chemical, orthoxyline, either evaporated, was absorbed by the water or went out with the tide.

He said, however, that Philadelphia fire officials reported there still was a concentration of the chemical in the areas of two piers here.

Smoking was prohibited in pier areas and vessels were asked to proceed with caution.

ternship first at the Naval Hospital, Camp Pendleton, Calif., and then aboard the attack transport USS Montague.

In 1954, at the end of the war in Indochina, his ship aided in evacuation of refugees from Communist North Viet Nam.

Seeing—and feeling—the plight of the hundreds of disease-ravaged inhabitants of the area made up Dooley's mind.

He had no money. But he had a fighting heart, boundless energy and a burning zeal.

Hospital in Laos

After leaving the Navy in 1956 Dooley wrote a best-selling book, "Deliver Us From Evil." He used the book's proceeds, and supplies donated by pharmaceutical firms, to return to Laos with three former Navy buddies and set up a small hospital at Nam Tha, he brought in his medical supplies by train, plane, oxcart and dug-out canoe.

For his work with the refugees, Dooley won the Legion of Merit, and was the youngest officer in the history of the Medical Corps to receive it. He also was awarded the National Order of Viet Nam, that nation's highest decoration.

State Office May Be Replaced by 10-Member Board

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A controversy appeared to be shaping up today between two educational groups over whether Wisconsin should continue to elect a state superintendent of public education.

An official of the Wisconsin Association of School Boards said Wednesday that his organization probably would go on record in favor of a constitutional amendment to abolish the state superintendent's office and replace it with a 10-member board.

Ted G. Holtbusen, Stevens Point, first vice president of the association, said that a resolution calling for the change would be offered at the association's convention which began Thursday.

He said that a New York operation was predicted the resolution probably would be passed.

He said that the Wisconsin Education Association, which also favors setting up a state board, wants, however, to continue the statewide election of a superintendent to work with the board. The WEA is the organization of teachers.

The WASB wants the 10-member board to hire a superintendent who would act only as an administrator. The board, members, elected from each congressional district, would determine policy matters.

The superintendent's post is a constitutional office and a change really 65."

He managed to get his own plane and flew back and forth dictating the hospitals. An ad-mittedly avid fund-raiser, he once wryly described himself as "begging, bumming, borrowing and from time to time, just stealing."

Even though told by some doctors his cancer was arrested, he remarked to newsmen that his type of cancer was the fast-growing kind, but added: "I figure that what I have crammed into my life makes me a constitutional office and a change really 65."

Last November Dooley, in Hong Kong to discuss a new hospital program collapsed from sheer exhaustion. Came the brace and a diagnosis of "bony destruction to the vertebrae."

After a funeral mass at St. Louis Cathedral, Dooley will be buried in Calvary Cemetery beside his father, Thomas A. Dooley Sr., and a brother, Earle, killed then aboard the attack transport USS Montague.

Among survivors are his mother, Agnes, and two brothers, Malcom, of Huntington, N.Y., and Edward, of Cleveland, Ohio.

vasion from the United States," the announcement said. "But a magazine was found on board with photos of Baker taken with other Americans at Masferrer's home in Miami which said the group had enlisted to overthrow Castro."

Castro's cabinet, meanwhile, needed the United States with a series of new decrees.

In a session lasting until after midnight, the cabinet:

1. Ordered all Cubans and foreigners employed on the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo and living outside the base to get special work permits from the Cuban government.
2. Ordered all other persons entering the base — meaning Cubans trading with it — to get special permits.
3. Ordered drastic changes in the Spanish-American war monument in Havana.
4. Decreed Cuban citizenship for Laura Menses de Albizu Campos, wife of a Puerto Rican nationalist leader imprisoned by the United States for urging the overthrow of the U.S. government.
5. Decreed Cuban citizenship for Juan Juarbes, another Puerto Rican nationalist leader.
6. Ordered dissolution of the Cuban-American Cultural Institute, charging it has been converted into a propaganda outlet for the state department.

Nearly 4,000 Cuban nationals work at the base and almost all of them live outside. In 1958, the last year for which records are available, they were paid nearly $7 million in wages. In addition, the base in 1958 bought $1.5 million worth of Cuban produce and other goods.

Dooley again toured the U.S. to raise funds for MEDICO. He spent a day in Appleton, spoke at a luncheon of Fox Cities businessmen and addressed a large crowd at Lawrence Memorial Chapel.

Even though told by some doctors his cancer was arrested, he remarked to newsmen that his type of cancer was the fast-growing kind, but added: "I figure that what I have crammed into my life makes me a constitutional office and a change really 65."

Integrated Bar Of State Before Supreme Court

High Tribunal Questions Reynolds On Group's Legality

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States Supreme Court justice wants to know why there should not be an integrated medical profession, or integration for plumbers in Wisconsin if the state's lawyers can have such a program.

Chief Justice Earl Warren directed that question Wednesday at Wisconsin's attorney general, John Reynolds, during a hearing before the high tribunal.

Reynolds asked the Supreme Court to uphold a ruling by the Wisconsin Supreme Court that all practicing lawyers in the state must become dues paying members of the Wisconsin State Bar. The state's law setting up the plan is known as the integrated bar.

Challenging Law

Trayton L. Lathrop, a Madison, Wis., attorney, is challenging the law, contending that it violated the freedom of association and speech and is unconstitutional. This is the first time the issue has been tested before the Supreme Court. The outcome is important to the legal profession since 26 other states have a similar regulation.

"Is there any reason," Warren asked Reynolds and Gordon Sinykin, an attorney assisting the attorney general, "why you could not have an integrated medical profession which could exploit its views of what is good for the public? Or for the plumbers?"

Sinykin replied that he believed physicians might similarly be forced to join state associations, but he was not sure about plumbers.

Propagandize Views

One of Lathrop's complaints was that the State Bar by majority vote took positions on matters before the Wisconsin Legislature. He said this view might differ from his own, but he was forced to belong to the State Bar.

Justice Black said the question seemed to get down to "can you propagandize the views which a majority approves."

Sinykin contended there was only a narrow field, such as administration of justice, in which the State Bar took a position. He said it did not take sides on political matters.

Political Matter

"How much a judge should be paid is a political matter," Warren said.

When Sinykin said "we only took a position on 19 or 20 matters since the bar was integrated," Justice Frankfurter commented: "You are a feeble integrated then."

Reynolds said bar associations are different because the lawyers are the officers of the court.

"Are they officers of the court when they lobby before a Legislature on these matters?" Warren interjected. "I want to know why there is any legal distinction between a Star Bar and any other profession."

Reynolds said he believed a state could make similar regulations dealing with other professions.

Council Advances Building Projects

Approves Getting Plans for Schools, Field Grandstand Roof

The Appleton Board of Education last night was authorized by the City Council to hire architects for two school building projects and the Board of Public Works to retain a consulting engineer or architectural firm for a Goodland Field grandstand roof.

The permission was among the Board of Public Works' recommendations approved by aldermen.

The board reported the school requests were based on the priority established in the five-year capital improvement program which the board is preparing to submit to the council. Aldermen Homer Malmstrom and Mrs. Dorothy Stillings argued that the five-year plan does not exist until

A. E. Zwicker Estate Goes To Relatives

Widow, Daughters, Four Grandchildren Get Shares in Funds

The widow, two children and four grandchildren of Arthur E. Zwicker, who died in Appleton at the age of 78 last Nov. 30, have been named beneficiaries of his estate.

The petition for probate of the will, filed in County Court before Judge Stanley A. Staidl, shows personal property worth more than $10,000 and real estate valued in excess of $10,000.

Full amount of the estate will not be calculated until the inventory is filed, but a list of holdings in a safe deposit box shows substantial stock holdings. Zwicker, with two of his brothers, founded the Zwicker Knitting Mills in 1919. He was secretary of the firm at one time and served on the board of directors until October, 1959.

Among the box holdings were 20,011 shares of Incomplete Investors, 3,368 shares of Zwicker stock, 7,281 shares of Fidelity Fund, Inc., 1,581 shares of Boston Fund, Inc., 510 shares of Kimberly - Clark, 20,249 shares of Massachusetts Investment Trust, 1,000 shares of General Telephone of California, 1,275 shares of General Telephone Corp. of New York, 2,550 shares of General Telephone and Electronics, 200 shares of Home Insurance Co. of New York, U.S. bonds with a face value of $700 and life insurance policies with a face value of $6,000, along with several deeds and land contracts.

The will leaves the homestead at 204 N. Drew St., the furniture and $35,000 to the widow, Ida Zwicker. The balance of the estate, after payment of debts and costs of administration, will be divided into thirds, with his daughters, Mrs. Ralph E. Nagreen, 614 W. Parkway Blvd., and Mrs. Gladys Milner, Anchorage, Alaska, each receiving a third. The remaining third goes to the four sons of Zwicker's son, Lawrence, who is dead.

The grandchildren are George Zwicker, Flint, Mich.; Thomas, Neenah; and Richard and Robert, both of Fond du Lac.

The widow and daughters were named co-executrices of the will.

WISCONSIN RAPIDS (AP)—

The ouster of four directors of the Badger Plastics Corp. who live outside of Wisconsin Rapids was voted Wednesday by a group headed by three local men in a proxy fight for control of the company.

There were 78,718 proxy votes cast for the removal of directors Robert Buntic of Elmhurst, Ill., Robert Monroe of Chicago, Robert E. Reynolds of Norridge, Ill., and Robert Ross of Fontana, Wis. There were 127,500 shares valued at $1 each authorized at the corporation's organizational meeting last April 20. Each share is equal to a proxy vote.

The special stockholders meeting was called by directors Jay G. Somers, J. J. Nimitz and D.A. Blanke, all of Wisconsin Rapids. They told stockholders in a letter: "We believe the operating management must be changed to permit the employment of capable and experienced management. It appears that this can only be accomplished by changing the board of directors."

James W. Cotter of Chicago, Monroe to address stockholders in counsel for the four out-of-town directors, said he believed the spe-

Street Workers To Get Paid For Hours Off

Alderman Asks That Other City Employees Get Christmas Bonus

Appleton street workers will be paid for three hours they were given off work the day before Christmas Eve, the City Council decided last night.

At the same meeting, Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings introduced a resolution calling for three hours pay bonus to city employees who worked the afternoon of Dec. 23.

Payment to the street workers was part of the recommendations of the Street and Sanitation Committee's report, approved by an 18-1 vote. The dissenting vote was management must be changed to permit the employment of capable and experienced management. It appears that this can only be accomplished by changing the board of directors."

He would not permit Buntic and Monroe to address stockholders in counsel for the four out-of-town directors, said he believed the spe-

After Confusion, Council Calls Hearing on Rezoning

After some confusion because hearing on a proposed zoning of wording of a City Planning Commission report, the Appleton City Council last night called a

The request by Herbert F. Dorn would permit him to expand parking space behind his supermarket at 509 N. Richmond St. and to build a private alley to W. Lorain St. Residential neighbors have opposed the change, fearing trucks would use the alley, create danger to children and decrease property values.

Ald. Clifford H. Radder suggested that the city get sound advice from a specialized labor attorney when drawing up next year's contracts for city employees.

Ald. Ervin J. Sogan acknowledged that a mistake had been made when Street Supl. Reinhold F. Schulze, after consulting Mayor Clarence A. Mitchell told the men they would be paid for the afternoon and then Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski would not authorize payment. But Bogan said a big issue was being made of something trivial, that some people were trying to pin the mistake on certain city officials.

Mrs. Stillings said her proposal would prevent employees from being penalized for the mistake.

The mayor referred her resolution to the Finance Committee and then granted Ald. Robert J. Stumpf's request that it go also to the Public Safety Committee, of which Stumpf is chairman.

Superior-Packard Location Only Offer For New Fire Station

A recommendation that the Board of Public Works negotiate to buy a fire station site at N. Superior and W. Packard Streets was referred back to the Public Safety Committee for more study by the Appleton City Council last night.

The site, offered by Tillman Realty Co. at $2 a square foot, is the only one in the downtown area offered for a station expected to be built in about 1965.

Some aldermen argued that since the purchase recommendation would have to be referred

Wants County to Make Payment in Lieu of School Tax

MADISON — Legislation to require Brown County to make payments in lieu of school taxes to the school district in the Town of Hobart for the new Brown County Municipal Golf Course there was proposed in the state Assembly Wednesday by Assemblyman Vanderperren of the third Brown County district. The legislator said the county is now paying a similar tax equivalent on county property in the Town of Suamico.

Will Red China be Recognized?

It is apparent from the past speeches of Chester Bowles that he would be much happier if the United States could follow a policy "based on the reality of the two Chinas," recognizing the Red Chinese regime and gaining from Peiping the acceptance of the independence of Formosa. Involved as such a suggestion is with the emotions of Americans who are firmly opposed to Communism, such a policy would face hard going. Unfortunately this to-recognize-or-not has always been one of emotions rather than reality.

Woodrow Wilson idealistically started the whole thing when he, and his secretary of state, William Jennings Bryan, refused to recognize the revolutionary Huerta regime in Mexico. As Wilson's biographer, Arthur Link, writes, "In spite of the President's frequent denials that he ever had intervened or ever would intervene, this effort involved interference by the United States in Mexican affairs on an unprecedented scale." Wilson sent notes demanding free elections and the non-eligibility of Huerta. There was a threat to supply arms to the rival Constitutionalists. Wilson even prepared a hot note to England protesting that nation's recognition. As Mexican authorities piously proclaimed, the whole thing meant that the President of the United States was establishing a veto power over the choices of the Mexican people. According to Mr. Link, "in working toward a commendable objective Wilson used the wrong tactics, with the result that by the end of his administration the United States had hardly a friend left in Mexico." And there wasn't a democratic government there either.

The failure in Mexico was not just the result of bungling by the Wilson administration. The Harding government refused recognition of the Bolshevik regime in Russia, partly because of the atrocious way it came to power, partly because it had seized American property without compensation, repudiated debts and was sending foreign agents around bringing the bad words of the Reds. The Coolidge and Hoover administrations continued the non-recognition.

But by 1933, other nations had repudiated their debts to "Uncle Shylock" and we had not withdrawn recognition. The depression had tightened belts and made us look for ways to strengthen the economy. Japan and Nazi Germany were on the war-path and the Russian Reds suddenly looked relatively gentle. The Roosevelt administration offered recognition to Russia in exchange for permitting Americans in the Soviet Union freedom of worship and the withdrawal of Communist propaganda and Russian agents. There also was obviously the belief by Roosevelt advisors that Communist as practised in Russia was no longer such a terrible thing and that we could lead them along the path to righteousness.

Recognition of Russia did make it easier to deal with them once both nations became involved in the war with Germany. Otherwise it was a poor trade. The number of Americans denied religious opportunities in the Soviet was negligible. Russia never kept its word as far as the use of Communist agents was concerned and the future negotiations on debts and compensation for confiscated property never materialized.

The basic problem seems to be confusion as to the aims and advantages of recognition and non-recognition. Non-recognition is obviously and clearly interference in the internal affairs of another country. If the non-recognition is used as a means of obtaining justice for American individuals or investments it has a sound basis although it may not work. If it is used as a sign of our approval of a particular regime, it is ridiculous, non-workable and eventually will be cast aside as the atrocities of revolution are forgotten.

The recognition of Red China at this time continues to appear as dangerous principally because of the effect upon the non-Communist nations of Asia. Because our non-recognition has appeared to be lack of approval, it must follow that recognition is approval. We are bogged down here by a confusion between what we believe should be and what is. The same sort of controversy handicaps the United Nations which, by charter, is a group of peace-loving nations but which includes Soviet Russia, Egypt and now some new African nations which do not seem concerned about peace as much as peace.

The only way non-recognition of Red China can be upheld in the future is by open acknowledgement that a state of war exists between the free world and the Communist nations. Obviously our allies, many of whom have diplomatic relations with Red China, are not prepared to go this far. We doubt that the Kennedy administration will go any further in this direction than did the Eisenhower regime. Red China's government probably will be recognized in an effort to cut down the danger of hot war in the Pacific. If there is enough opposition it will be for the wrong reason, our opposition to Communism as a form of government rather than its avowed aim to take over the world.

We do not believe that Red China should be recognized by the United States, but we think that the policy of non-recognition in an effort to force democratic governments or even friendly regimes should be abandoned. It has proved a colossal failure every time it has been used.

The Proposed Peace Corps

Reports are that the first responses, both in the United States and abroad, to the President-Elect's peace corps idea have been favorable.

Maurice Albertson, director of the Colorado State University Research Foundation, says that all responses from abroad have been favorable with the exception of those from India. Mr. Albertson says that in his opinion India has not understood the idea. The Colorado State University Research Foundation is under contract to make a study of the proposal for the International Cooperations Administration. It is hoped that the study will determine the length of service in the corps, the place in the government it shall have, and when and what type of service could be rendered by this corps to the undeveloped countries of the world.

Albertson starts tomorrow on a two months' survey of youth corps prospects in Southeast Asia, India and Pakistan. He has associates touring Latin America and Africa.

At home thousands of letters are being sent out from Colorado State University to young people and to persons who have organized young people in private efforts to assist underdeveloped countries. The idea of a youth corps was made in Washington over a year ago by Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.) and by the late Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.).

During the campaign, Sen. John F. Kennedy discussed the idea in his speeches. In an address at San Francisco on Nov. 2, Kennedy said he was proposing "a 'peace corps' of talented young men willing and able to serve their country in this fashion for three years as an alternative to peacetime selective service — well - qualified through rigorous standards, well-trained in the language, skills and customs they will need to know — and directed and paid by the ICA agencies."

Again in Chicago, on Nov. 4, Mr. Kennedy referred to his "peace corps of Americans trained to help these nations help themselves — to show them modern agriculture, public health, road building, government and other skills — trained in the language and customs of these nations (which so few of our ambassadors and foreign services are today) — would be composed not only of young men qualified to elect this alternative to the draft, but also men and women of every age — teachers and engineers forced to retire at 65, for example — who desire to devote a part of their lives not as soldiers of war but as ambassadors of peace."

However, the task force reporting on the organization of this corps of helpers has referred to it as a youth corps. Furthermore, the task force has strongly recommended against exempting the participants from the draft as an inducement to enlist them in the corps. There has been very little said about enlistment of the elderly people. The emphasis all has been on youth and that may be a good thing. Since the work of the corps will require considerable travel, some hardship and the ability to accommodate one's self to new conditions, it is probable youth would make the most useful members.

The Abominable Snow Man Passes

Sir Edmund Hillary, Mt. Everest conqueror, didn't find the Abominable Snowman on his most recent exploration into the snows of the Himalayas. But he brought back a scalp, protected for hundreds of years by the Buddhist monks in Nepal.

The scap has been examined by scientific experts in the United States and England. Some have said it is a plain fake. Others admit its age but claim it couldn't have come from the mysterious Yeti as described by the Sherpa mountain people. The strange creature, according to hard-headed men of science, is only an imaginative figment, a shadow on the snow, an illusion of altitude fever or a nightmarish dream of a particularly articulate Sherpa herdsman.

But all the evidence hasn't bothered the monks in the Khamjung monastery. When the relic was returned to them via helicopter, thousands cheered and offered prayers of thanksgiving.

Somehow the revelation that the Yeti doesn't exist is a disappointment to those of us in the outer world. In Nepal he may have served a useful purpose for persuading youngsters to get home early, emphasizing the dangers of too much strong drink and perhaps even a warning to ordinary mankind not to venture too high into the endless ice fields of the mountain tops where the gods reside.

But more than that, the Yeti was symbolic of the unknown and the unknowable, the frontier of knowledge, the lure of what might lie beyond the next hill. Now there are only vague ghost tales and the stories of the gremlins and shue to stand between us and a pragmatic world.

Or could it be that the Yeti is chuckling to himself in his boundless wilderness of glacier and cavern protected for another generation from the probings of mere man?

First Inauguration Took Place At Federal Hall in New York City

BY LYNN POOLE
The Johns Hopkins University

Tomorrow the 34th man to become President of the United States will be inaugurated in tradition-rich ceremonies in the nation's capitol.

It was 172 years ago when George Washington was inaugurated as this country's first President. The date was April 30, 1789. The place was New York City.

Clouds concealed the sun at the break of dawn that morning, but they could not conceal the electric excitement which swept the city. Washington awoke early to the sounds of a 13-gun salute fired from cannon at the Battery. He dressed leisurely for there was no hurry. The ceremony would not begin until afternoon. His hair was powdered first, then he donned a suit of brown broadcloth spun at mills in Hartford, Conn., an obvious advertisement for American industry. The buttons of the suit bore a design of an eagle, his stockings were white silk, his shoe buckles were silver. Later he put on a dress sword in a steel scabbard.

Clouds Disperse
At about 9 o'clock church bells in the city began to ring — some in wild cacophony, others with measured solemnity. At the same time the clouds dispersed and the sun shone brightly, almost prophetically. Crowds began to gather before Washington's residence in the hope of catching a glimpse of their hero, while militia stood guard.

Washington stayed put until after the noon hour, the text of his 20-minute inaugural address neatly folded in a pocket in the brown suit.

There had been much talk about what to call the nation's chief executive. The members of the senate had favored a regal and dramatic title, such as "His-Highness, the President of the United States of America, and Protector of their Liberties."

The representatives, however, prevailed. He would be called, simply and with dignity, "President of the United States."

Parade Begins
Shortly after noon several carriages ground to a halt before Washington's residence. The joint committee of congress had arrived to tell the man of the hour that congress was ready to receive him at Federal Hall. At 12:30 Washington stepped into a specially-prepared coach drawn by four fine horses. He rode alone. The pace of the march was slow.

Federal Hall sits on a slight hill at Broad and Wall Streets in New York. The procession stopped 200 yards south of the building. The huge crowd cheered as the party made its way into the handsomely-decorated senate chamber in the building. There Washington met the waiting vice-president-to-be, John Adams. They were seated on the dais under a canopy of crimson damask. After an uneasy silence in the chamber, John Adams rose and, after another hesitant pause, said: "Sir, the senate and house of representatives are ready to attend you to take the oath required by the constitution. It will be administered by the chancellor of the State of New York."

"I am ready to proceed," Washington answered clearly. "It Is Done"

The principles moved out of the chamber to a portico atop the broad steps which led down to the street where thousands of people were crowded in excited anticipation. Roof-tops, too, were filled with people and they gazed from windows in all the surrounding buildings. Volleys of cheers rolled up to meet Washington.

Rapidly now, the event occurred. Samuel Otis, secretary of the senate, held a small red cushion on which rested a Bible. George Washington placed his right hand on the Bible. And the chancellor spoke: "Do you solemnly swear that you will faithfully execute the Office of President of the United States and will, to the best of your ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States?"

Washington repeated the oath, added "So help me God," and bent to kiss the Bible. The chancellor said "It is done". Then he turned to the massed crowd and shouted: "Long live George Washington, President of the United States". Roaring cheers rocked the nearby buildings and pulsed through the city, church bells pealed wildly, cannons boomed, and amidst the inspiring scene, an American flag was run up atop Federal Hall.

The United States had its first President.

Tax Study Apt to Go Way of Former Reports

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — It is becoming nearly obvious that the highly touted, costly and laborious report of the so-called "blue ribbon" tax advisory commission is going to be consigned to the political junk heap.

Gov. Nelson, who originally called for the commission and set it up with the promise that he would regard its findings carefully, has since its composition found little to say about its major premises or conclusions.

Some of the men who are most closely allied with him politically, and who might be assumed to know something about his thinking, already are out with the torpedoes to sink it.

Nor has there been any measurable enthusiasm for its major proposals among the body politic, as far as popular opinion can be measured on such things.

Meanwhile the Republicans in control of the legislature, who could enact these proposals if they chose to do so, have been almost equally oblivious to the bold proposals for reorganizing the revenue scheme of the state and its localities, and totally redistributing the existing budgets of shared taxes. Some who have commented have done so in extremely frigid, almost contemptuous terms.

THE EXCUSE

It is not true that the commission report is an indivisible package, as sometimes has been said. The major propositions are for a redistribution of locally shared state taxes on the basis of a new need formula, the repeal of most of the personal property tax levy, the flattening of the normal personal income tax rates, the elimination of the personal income surtax, and the enactment of a modified sales tax at a rate of two per cent—the whole to enable some reduction in local real property tax burdens and the financing of the enlarging demands upon the state government treasury.

It is easily conceivable that each of these propositions could stand alone, and, indeed, that each of them would have a better political outlook if considered separately and on their individual merits.

There is a temptation to suspect, in fact, that the eagerness of some Democrats to grasp the tax redistribution scheme is a kind of excuse for defeating the whole package — and especially the sales tax scheme which manages to scare so many politicians of liberal persuasion.

For it is perfectly obvious that the most difficult proposition politically is tax redistribution. No one will forecast success for that section of the report. Some shrewd politicians might very well campaign for that unattainable proposal, knowing that it is foredoomed, and thus try to avoid blame for helping to scuttle a tax revision program about which the state administration talked so much and about which the incumbent governor managed to campaign in two successive elections.

SOME GAIN

But even if this report never reaches a vote in the legislature — and that seems extremely likely at the moment — the effort won't be a complete loss.

As a device for political education, the governor's gimmick succeeded. The publicity about this investigation has been so intensive that the degree of public understanding of the tax and finance problem must now be improved. It is now manifest that it is easier to talk about relieving property taxes than getting it done. The sales tax is no longer a dirty word in Wisconsin public affairs. There is a more sympathetic understanding of the tax burdens on the Wisconsin economy, and the considerable divergence of tax policy here from that in other states.

As far as the Democratic administration is concerned, the drum-fire of tax publicity during nearly two years has probably convinced everyone that taxes are going to rise, somehow. The impression of inevitability has been established. Presumably the voter who is not surprised won't be so resentful.

No Such Thing As Baldness; It's Fine Hair

From The Chicago Tribune

Dr. Eugene J. Van Scott, a dermatologist from Bethesda, Md., has brought a ray of cheer to those of us who wish we had more hair.

"Baldness," he told the American Academy of Dermatology the other day, "is not a loss of hair. The hair just becomes shorter, thinner, and finer, and finally you can't see it at all. But there's hair there."

It is encouraging to know that a man who resembles Mr. Eisenhower from the air can, with the aid of a microscope, look like Mr. Kennedy. We no longer have to rely solely on the cliches that baldness signifies above average intelligence or masculinity; we can now take the offensive and point out that if people had better eyesight, they would realize that we aren't bald at all.

We await the development of some tonic which, sprayed on our invisible mane, will cause it to stand out like a college freshman's crew cut. Meanwhile there is one thing that bothers us. If a man's hair is entirely invisible, what should be put down on his driver's license where it asks for "color of hair?"

Science Not Needed for Proof

Things are older than they had thought, scientists report. They have determined a more accurate value for the radioactive "half life" of carbon 14, which is the key to dating very old materials by measuring radiant energy. Thus the Dead Sea scrolls are now believed to be 1,963 years old instead of 1,917. Well, we're not scientists, but it didn't take scientific study to prove that we're older than we thought. We found it out on the ice skating rink the other night.

GOP Critical, But Democrats OK Nelson Talk

Knowles Calls It Shotgun Attack With Little New

MADISON (AP)—The Assembly goes into session today in a chamber still heated from the meeting Wednesday of Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson's proposed legislative package and a buzzsaw of Republican criticism.

The Senate planned only an informal session.

Nelson had barely finished presenting his 10-point program to the legislators when GOP Lt. Gov. Warren Knowles of New Richmond criticized it as "a shotgun attack without many new proposals."

Most Republicans wanted a look at Nelson's upcoming tax proposals to balance the budget before they would comment in detail on the program.

"Well Satisfied"

One of the strongest reactions centers on Nelson's plan to substitute a single executive for the present three-man Highway Commission.

"I am well satisfied with our three-man commission—Does that answer your question?" said Sen. Jess Miller, R-Richland Center, veteran chairman of the Senate Highway Committee.

Republican Assembly Floorleader Robert Hasse of Marinette later termed the proposal "a thin-veiled attempt to get rid of the lone Republican on the commission."

Reapportionment

Hasse was referring to G. H. Bakke, former GOP Assemblyman, of Menominee.

But Sen. Lynn Stalbaum of Racine, a Democratic leader, praised the message.

"It looks forward to meeting future problems as well as those of the present," he said.

Another Nelson call already setting off partisan sparks is for the reapportionment of the Legislature according to the 1960 census.

Lake Traffic Control

Also asked by the governor were a reappraisal of the state's educational effort, a simplified state income tax form, stronger civil rights laws, expanded county health agency duties, new annexation procedures, tightening of the corrupt practices act and a nonpartisan ballot for spring elections of county officers.

In the only floor action Wednesday, the Senate passed and sent to the Assembly a bill to give local authorities power to police ice-covered inland lakes. Recent drownings have brought calls for such action, which would extend regulations now governing summer boating.

shipment of fluid milk in Interstate Commerce today opened a pandora's box of protests and charges from three Republican members of the Wisconsin house delegation.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, chairman of the GOP house policy committee called Freeman's statement "preposterous", because, Byrnes believes, in effect, the statement foreshadows the former Minnesota governor's opposition to any legislation permitting the free flow of fluid milk in interstate commerce.

"It seems fantastic that Mr. Freeman has so little regard for the dairy farmer's problems when he has such an intimate knowledge of these same problems," Byrnes added.

Solons Comment

Rep. Vernon W. Thomson, R., Richland Center, former governor of Wisconsin, said he was "shocked" to discover that Freeman, as Secretary of Agriculture, would be "representing eastern interests at the expense of the midwestern dairy farmer."

"Only a few days ago, representatives Robert W. Kastenmeier D., Watertown and Lester R. Johnson, D-Black River Falls, sent out releases stating that both Freeman and President-elect John Kennedy supported legislation providing for the free flow of milk between the states," Thomson recalled. "Well, this support only lasted three days."

"If this attitude of Freeman's is a part of the Kennedy administration's new frontiers, it is not an auspicious one," continued Thomson. "I hope that the rest of the frontiers will not be so damaging to the midwest dairy farmer."

Earlier this week, Thomson joined with Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R., Marshfield, in introducing a bill setting up through the Secretary of Agriculture strict federal standards for sale of milk in interstate commerce. The bill, aimed at removing present individual state's restrictions against the sale of milk between the states, was referred to the house agriculture committee. The measure's chances for approval were considered to be better in that committee than in the house interstate and foreign commerce committee, which previously had pigeonholed similar measures.

Now, approval of the measure by the secretary of agriculture seems highly speculative, Thomson pointed out.

Kuehn Tells GOP to 'Face Facts of Life'

Party Urged to Do Better in Urban Areas of State

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Philip Kuehn, giving the appearance of raring to go on a second campaign for governor, said Wednesday night Republicans must face "a cold realistic fact of life" that the party must do better in the growing urban areas of the state.

Kuehn, who lost to Governor Gaylord Nelson by 50,000 votes November in his first try for elective office, spoke to a dinner meeting of the Republican Club of Brown County attended by about 75 persons. He avoided being specific on a second candidacy but made it plain it was a clear possibility.

During a questioning period, Kuehn was asked whether the state GOP should stick with its policy of candidate endorsement. The former state party chairman replied this was something the party ought to decide at the 1961 convention "when there are no personalities involved."

"As a man who may be a candidate, I must view this as something up to the party to resolve," Kuehn said.

In 1962, the state GOP unless rules are changed must decide on endorsing Sen. Alexander Wiley for reelection. This would be hard for some elements in the party to do.

In his talk on party organization, Kuehn said the GOP must face the fact that it will lose more than its share of elections if it does not come up with more of the vote from urban areas which are getting larger every year.

"You hear a lot of talk, 'let's not worry about Milwaukee, that's Democrat anyway.' We can't have that attitude," Kuehn said. There are two things the Republicans should be doing about this, he said. These are out-organizing said Republicans could learn a lesson that you cannot win elections "on an every other fall basis" and that you must know in which precincts your potential votes are located.

"We have this advantage over the Democrats. They have only COPE. After that in Wisconsin, the Democrat party is poorly organized. Take a look at it," Kuehn said.

Revenue Program

During the questions period, Kuehn was critical of the effort for Republican State Sen. Reuben La Fave and Chester Dempsey for an April referendum on a sales tax. Kuehn indicated he viewed a referendum as a way for Nelson to duck responsibility.

"I would think in this instance it is incumbent on the governor to come up with a revenue program after the budget situation is fairly well settled," Kuehn said. The County Republican Club was organized in 1960 as a working unit aside from the regular county voluntary Republican organization.

Philip Hendrickson was installed club president, succeeding first president Tom Skoog. Other club officers are Fred Baer, first vice president; James Tippet, second vice president; Richard Boltz, secretary; Robert Shade, treasurer, and James Peterson, auditor.

Business Leaves Big Urban Areas

Is business abandoning the big city — and thus helping to create the vicious circle of downtown degeneration, higher urban taxes to make up for the abandoned investment, a result of further migration of business and loss of real estate values, more tax hikes and on and on?

Porter

The answer is an emphatic yes.

Item: America's top executives may work in our big cities but they don't live in them. A survey of a cross section of U.S. executives reveals that only one-third working in cities with populations of more than 250,000 live in them, and in our 10 largest cities, the proportion falls to a scant 27 per cent.

Item: Executives are much better citizens in the communities in which they live than in the cities in which they work. The percentage going in for any sort of political activities in the cities where they spend their daytime hours is a tiny minority. While most businessmen have an amazing degree of distaste for the governments of our cities, they do nothing to improve the situation. In the words of the Harvard Business Review, "Any accusation by critics that business has abandoned the work city to the real or imagined horrors of poor government is all too true."

Bad Political Image

Item: A major influence on business location and residence decisions is the political image of the city and right now, that image is decidedly bad. Executives do rate as assets: a big city's colleges, graduate schools, shopping facilities, nearness to clients and customers; but they rate as great liabilities: parking facilities, housing, labor costs, political climate and, of course, the tax situation.

A suburbanite's impression that living in a city is equivalent to resigning his children to reform school and placing himself in the hands of the big city bosses may be completely illusory but it still can be, as the HBR puts it, "a very deadly bar to the suburbanite's return" to the city.

Item: Unless there is extensive urban renewal, America's big companies are going to continue migrating from the downtown areas. The spurt of building downtown by insurance companies — top employers downtown — masks the fact that even among these, the greatest growth in jobs is taking place in nondowntown facilities. One large retailing chain reports it expects to close 10 to 20 downtown stores per year as leases expire; at the same time, of the 348 stores it has opened in the last five years, 308 are located in suburban shopping centers.

Above you've read a sampling of the chilling disclosures just made by the Harvard Business Review after detailed studies and interviews among a cross section of more than 2,200 U.S. executives. The urgency of the report is abundantly apparent to any person who works in a city.

Attack on Problem

Its timeliness is dramatized by the fact that the Kennedy administration has pledged a bold attack on the whole problem of urban renewal and by its significant finding that an overwhelming majority — 87 per cent — of the executives believe that urban renewal is a responsibility of business.

This recognition of responsibility is enhanced by the additional finding that nearly all the executives finally agree that government must create the plan within which businessmen can work in intimate partnership with federal authorities and the cities to implement slum clearance; and if private developers fail, direct government action is essential. Until very recently, the attitude of most businessmen has been that direct government action in this sphere is intolerable interference.

In his opening messages, the new President surely will give high priority to urban renewal programs. Against today's background of economic recession, the chances of progress seem the best ever.

New buildings and improved transportation won't halt the flight from our cities, though. As the HBR survey emphasizes, a rebuilding of the city's image and of pride in being a citizen of a city are imperative too.

Here, leadership from businessmen is at an appalling minimum. As long as most executives work in one place, live in another, and do nothing except moan their city's degeneration, they are utterly defaulting on what they admit is their responsibility.

Pleads Innocent to Charge of Embezzling $6,000 From Laundry

MINERAL POINT (AP)—Mrs. Arlene Horne Sommers, a 21-year-old Mineral Point housewife, Tuesday pleaded innocent to charges of embezzling about $6,000 from a cleaning establishment where she worked as a clerk.

Mrs. Sommers was bound over to Iowa County Court for trial and held under $10,000 bond following her appearance before Justice A. A. Schnurr.

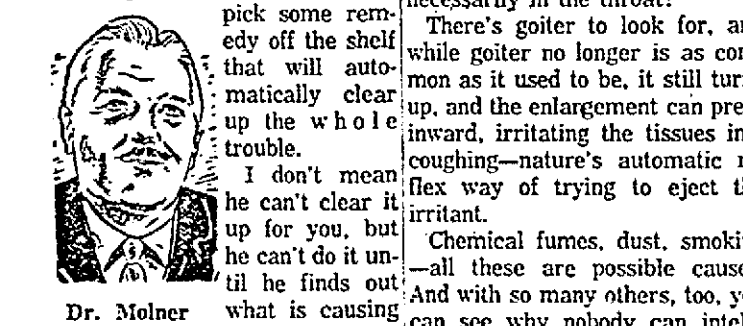

She is accused of taking the money between Jan. 1, 1959 and last November, from Art's Cleaners and Laundry in Mineral Point.

Before Cough Can be Cured, Its Causes Must be Known

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

When you go to your doctor with a cough — or bronchitis — don't expect him to be able to pick some remedy off the shelf that will automatically clear up the whole trouble.

Dr. Molner

I don't mean he can't clear it up for you, but he can't do it until he finds out what is causing the bronchitis or cough.

You understand, of course, that we do not mean the casual day or two of coughing that comes along with a cold sometimes, and clears up after it has quit irritating the respiratory tract. We mean the chronic bronchitis that hangs on.

How does the physician track down the cause, since there are so many possibilities? Well, the first step is obvious: Take a look at the throat. Sometimes you can't see much of anything, or at any rate can't see anything that gives conclusive evidence of the basic cause.

Chest X-Ray

Then a chest X-ray is necessary. This is something we all ought to have periodically anyway. The purpose is to establish whether the lungs appear normal. The X-ray also will give an important clue if, say, there is some abnormality in size and shape of the heart. Some heart ailments can cause pressures which irritate cough.

Somewhat more specialized X-rays may be called for if it appears that bronchiectasis is the fault. This is a more common affliction than people realize—an inflammatory condition in the bronchial tubes and contiguous mucous areas.

Or a bronchoscope, affording a direct look at the bronchial passes, may be required to see whether polyps or a tumor or some condition is irritating the throat.

Nose Inspection

Or, again, getting away from the lower air passages, it is always essential to inspect the nose as well as throat, because the upper passages may be introducing the irritation which causes the cough. The cause of a cough isn't necessarily in the throat!

There's got to look for, and while goiter no longer is as common as it used to be, it still turns up, and the enlargement can press inward, irritating the tissues into coughing—nature's automatic reflex way of trying to eject the irritant.

Chemical fumes, dust, smoking—all these are possible causes. And with so many others, too, you can see why nobody can intelligently say that any particular medicine or treatment is "a cure for bronchitis."

However, there are cures, plenty of them. But you must apply the one that fits the case. As to cough medicines, that's futile. They serve only a temporary function, to suppress severe, acute outbursts of coughing. But unless the cause is transient, cough mixtures aren't the answer. The one real answer is to find out the cause.

Air Spaces

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have noticed that many people, including myself, have white growths on their fingernails. They seem to grow from the bottom of the nail to the top. What is this and can it be prevented?—D.J."

Little white spots can be caused by some small injury at the nail bed — as from manicuring. The spots, in such a case, are small air spaces in the nail, and they move out, of course, as the nail grows.

Milk Important

NOTE TO MRS. B.: Milk in the adult diet is important as a source of calcium. Skim milk contains the calcium; removal of the butterfat by skimming makes it more satisfactory, of course, for folks who are troubled by overweight.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, for my booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Charlie Delves Into Word Use, Derivation, Even a Few Spellings

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

POTPOURRI — If you're an average person — and who isn't — you can read and understand about 50,000 words in the English language. If you are a well educated person who reads widely, you should understand between 60,000 and 70,000 words of our language.

Strangely, however, only about 300 words make up 75 per cent of all the words used in common speech and writing in our version of English. And of these 300 words, only 10 of them are used for a whopping total of 75 per cent of the time. The worn-out 10 are these: the, and, to, you, of, be, we, in, have, and it.

The letter "e" is used more than any other letter in our language, although the letter "s" is most frequently used as the initial letter in a word.

Do you use chamois skin when you wash your car? No, you don't although you did long ago. Now the soft skin of this shy, swift antelope is too expensive and most of the "chamois skins" on the market today are made from sheep, goats and calf.

The chamois lives high in the mountains of the Caucasian Range and among the heights of the Himalayas as well as in the Alps and Pyrenees an almost inaccessible to man. And did you know that the chamois is a little thing, measuring only about two feet tall and three feet in length?

Biblical Italics

Sure, you read the Bible. But have you ever wondered why so many of the apparently unimportant words are in italics? Well, here's why: the italicized words are used to make a translation of Greek or Hebrew words because those languages are not readily translatable into English without adding an article of speech or even another word here and there to make complete sense out of what may otherwise be an exact translation. Thus the italicized words are added ones for the purpose of translation into English. Now you know.

Mrs. Mary Heaney of Oconto Falls may have the last word in our recent prolonged discussion of memory aids, for she writes:

"I was quite interested in your column on memory aids and the device some people used to remember the counties in Wisconsin. I have a somewhat different problem. How do you forget the pesky things once you have learned them? I learned them in the seventh grade. Today I am a grandmother eight times over and still remember them.

"They are the most useless piece of information I have ever committed to memory. The only purpose they have served in the interim was to flabbergast my psychology professor at Oshkosh who was trying to prove that we tend to forget useless information.

"I learned them over night because I wanted the prize that was offered for knowing them. No memory aids, just the alphabetical list of counties, all 71 of them. About every five years or so, the subject comes up and I wonder whether I haven't forgotten them. I never have. They always come out like a stream of water when the faucet is turned on full blast, with only a pause for breath at the M's.

"Please, Mr. House, how do you forget them?"

Safer Than Horse

The "you sometimes wonder" department: Back in 1899, the Pittsburgh Motor Vehicle Department produced one of America's first trucks and called it a delivery wagon. They boasted thus: "This can be made in any style or design and can be fitted with five to eight horse power motors. Complete with motor, it will weigh from 900 to 1,400 pounds—so simple in construction that any driver of ordinary intelligence can operate it with more safety than he could drive a horse."

If you have wondered about the derivation of the word "stollen" for that fine bakery which is so common especially at Christmas time, I have an explanation from Karl Emmel, a baker of Green Bay.

I asked Mr. Emmel if there this story which is perhaps apocryphal:

Stollen was created by a German housemaid. When the family would bake, the maid would swipe a handful of butter, raisins and other available fruits. She would mix them with eggs in a regular bun-dough. Then she would bake the resulting conglomerate and wrap it in her apron to take it home.

'Stollen' Goods

One day her mistress noticed the bundle and asked her what she had. The German housemaid replied, "das is ge stollen." Hence, according to Emmel's informant, the tasty coffee cake became the traditional "stollen" adding another er letter "l" to distinguish it from the verb form.

People who spell things with double letters like "good" get me nervous when they say "g-double-o-o-d," and I have trouble understanding them. I was taught to spell such a word "g-o-o-d."

Undoubtedly, there are many persons who believe the former is a better way, but I submit that trouble can arise because of it. For example, I have heard of a fellow whose name was Otiwell. W. Wood, and here is how he spelled it: "o double t-i-doubleyou-e-double l - doubleyou-doubleyou-e-double l-doubleyou-doubleyou-o-u."

And if that doesn't cinch the argument in my favor, nothing will.

Child's Hearing Disorder Can Delay His Learning

BY CARL N. NEUPERT, M.D.
State Health Officer

Little Tommy seemed to be a normal three year old, except for one thing — he had not yet learned to talk well.

The reason was not discovered until he entered kindergarten. Only then did his parents find out that he was partially deaf.

Fortunately for Tommy, his parents arranged for prompt medical attention, which restored his hearing. Fortunately for many other children, hearing problems discovered at an early age also may be successfully treated. To do this, however, it is first necessary to discover the disorder and then locate the cause. And this must be done in time for early treatment.

Deafness and partial deafness in children may result from infections, like diseased tonsils, or infectious diseases, such as mumps and scarlet fever. Some children are born deaf — due possibly to infections or a number of other causes.

Slows Learning

Whatever the cause, these hearing problems — even when present in a relatively mild degree — are a serious source of delay for the child in learning to understand the language and to talk.

Checking hearing loss in young children — even in the first year of life — is not difficult. It can be done by noting a child's responses to different sounds such as those made by the human voice, a cup, a spoon, or rattle. If the child does not respond consistently and repeatedly to the same sound, he may have some form of impairment.

These are usually first signs of a hearing loss. Others include habitual failure to respond when spoken to, frequent mistakes in following instructions, and poor speech and mispronunciation of common words.

If your child shows any of these symptoms, you should take him to the family doctor or an ear specialist at once. You may not only be able to correct any hearing disorder, but also start him off, like Tommy, to a happier, more useful adult life.

Medicine Battles Home Cure-Alls

Madison Doctor Blasts Habits Working Against Longevity

One of the major problems of medicine today is treating the results of home treatments by self-appointed doctors and diagnosticians, Dr. Robert Samp, Madison, said last night.

Dr. Samp blasted several American habits he said were working against longevity. He spoke at the annual meeting of the Northside Advancement Association.

Marcel Friis, Charles De Noble and George Thiess were elected directors at the meeting.

Dr. Samp is medical director of the American Cancer Society, Wisconsin Division, a medical direc-for Appleton spring elections. Their actions assure contests for Board of Education and 19th Ward aldermen and indicate a four-way race for the 13th Ward City Council seat and a two-way race for the 9th Ward, 1st Precinct supervisorship.

Nomination petitions were turned in by Victor Sumnicht, school board member; Ald. William F. Ertl, 19th Ward; and Roland Sonnleitner, and Robert F. Burmeister, 1010 S. Kernan Ave., a carpenter, for the 13th Ward council post. Neither has political experience.

Ertl

Burmeister would join Glenn Thomas K. Neal R. Gamsky as challengers to Ald. Thomas K. Sumnicht, 43, of 1201 S. Kernan Ave., has been on the Board of Education for six years and is its secretary. He is president of Advance Industries, Inc., electronic controls manufacturers, and a partner in Sumnicht Supply Co. He is co-treasurer of the state campaign committee for Dr. William Fenelon for state school superintendent.

Sumnicht is married and the father of eight children.

Also running for two school board seats are Franklin L. Nehls, incumbent; Roland Vogt; and William T. Miller.

Ertl, 61, of 1412 N. Mason St., has been alderman from the 19th Ward since it was annexed to the city in 1951. He is a former chairman of the council's Public Safety Committee. He is secretary of Appleton Oil Co., Inc.

Ertl has two challengers, Grant Rohm and Arthur Mueller.

Sonnleitner, 46, of 1503 S. Lawe St., was named to the County Board in 1958 to fill a vacancy and was elected in 1959. He was in the U.S. Army from 1943 to 1946, is a boiler room attendant at St. Elizabeth Hospital, and is president of the South Side Athletic Club.

tor and clinical research worker in Madison and an assistant professor in the University of Wisconsin department of surgery.

He said medicine must work against masses of healers and quacks who offer miracle cures for almost every ailment. Most of them, he indicated during the course of his talk, operate via television.

"Americans are led to believe the pill is a cure-all. How many of you here have taken at least one pill today?" he asked.

Dr. Samp, who used a humorous approach to his subject, cited the television commercials for their unique approach to human anatomy, including hammers, springs and trap doors.

Home Diagnosis

"Many of our patients are people like you who diagnose at home. Then you come in nine or 10 months after the symptoms appear when you find the home cure isn't working."

Dr. Samp pointed out there are 117 major diseases. "Do you know all the symptoms of these diseases?" He said diseases are complex and can't be cured by patent medicine made out of various ingredients plus 20 per cent alcohol.

He also pointed out dangers in over-using penicillin. "Between 10 and 12 per cent of the public is allergic to penicillin," he said. He added that when it is used too much both the individual and bacteria it is supposed to kill become resistant to it."

The doctor stressed the fact that Americans do not take precautionary measures to guard their health. Chest X-rays and polio vaccinations are necessary, he declared.

Doctor Selves

"But Americans have a built-in urge to doctor themselves," he said.

"We have drugs we don't even have diseases for," he said. He pointed out that the body will take a lot, but when a person forces it to go beyond a certain balance, he is in trouble."

Taking pills, he said, is like donating blood with one arm and having a transfusion in the other. Many pills, in curing an ailment, set up an opposite reaction in the body that induces an ailment, Dr. Samp declared.

The doctor also attacked eating habits. "The rabbit food — carrots and celery — would have been enough for most of you at this banquet," he said.

Most American women have backaches because their stomachs are flabby, Dr. Samp said. Then they turn to a foundation garment to hold it in — and they get more flabby because their stomach muscles don't work. He suggested women should, once a day, tighten their stomach muscles and hold their breath as long as they can while standing straight. In a week or two, do it twice a day. He said this will tighten the muscles and eliminate backache.

He also recommended a generous use of water, both internally and externally. He said it is the best laxative known to man and creates smooth skin, and good bladder and bowel process. Soaking in a bathtub, he added, is a much better way to relax than taking a tranquilizer.

The key to longevity, Dr. Samp said, is in each person. They must live simply, in moderation and use good common sense.

Pigs Exonerated; Sewer Takes Blame

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Three pigs, awaiting use in a pathology laboratory, were naturalists to take the blame for an offensive odor which spread through a nearby ward at James Walker Memorial Hospital here.

But hospital authorities found the three pigs blameless when

His name will be engraved in the AHS hall of fame and he will enter American Legion oratorical competition which could lead to national honors.

Other entrants, who received gold keys, were Robert Malueg, who spoke on "A Human Machine, 650 Million Manpower;" Vance Kasten, "Living Our Religion;" Eric Schulerberg, "Idiot Box;" and Carol Bellinghausen, "Barbaric Generation?"

Kenneth Sager is their coach. Prosser was named "Boy of the Month" for December by the Appleton Optimist clubs earlier this week.

Two Admit Auto Thefts

Mother Warns Police: Son May Steal Car

Three Appleton boys, two 14 and the boy matched the mother's description. Two of the boys admitted taking a car owned by Mark Stumpf, 2207 S. Greenview St., last Sunday. They also admitted taking cars from Valley Fair parking lot last Thursday and last month.

The youths had an unloaded .22-caliber pistol, a holster and 98 rounds of ammunition, also stolen Wednesday night.

Two of them admitted to police three other auto thefts, two of them earlier this week and one last month.

Police said two of the boys admitted they hitchhiked to Menasha Thursday evening and stole a car owned by Sylvester Zielinske, 821 Milwaukee St., Menasha, from a parking lot.

Looked Young

They then drove to the Fox River Paper Co. parking lot and stole the pistol, holster and ammunition from an unlocked car. The theft was reported by Clarence Fields, route 1, Hortonville, owner of the pistol.

They picked up a third youth and were arrested at Wisconsin Avenue and Meade Street when the car stalled in the intersection, police said. Patrolman Dennis Krause investigated when he noticed the driver looked young and

Large Bill May Be Speed Miracle

Senator Suggests New Courts in 4 Counties to be Filled in April

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON—Sen. Gerald Lorge of Outagamie County has made a proposal to his colleagues in the Wisconsin Legislature that may be classified as a minor miracle in legislative speed if it is accomplished.

Lorge has introduced a bill that would authorize the creation of an additional county court in Outagamie, Dodge, LaCrosse and Racine Counties. The bill would permit the courts to be filled by election next April and require candidates for the bench in each instance to qualify for the election by filing nomination petitions before Feb. 10.

The legislature rarely works on such a fast time table, but Lorge has already asked the Senate Judiciary Committee to report the bill for passage without the delay of a public hearing. The additional courts have been approved by the Judicial Council, which held hearings on them earlier.

No Hearing
Even if the senate acts speedily, it appears likely that the assemblies would have to be persuaded to

Secretary of State For Few Hours Now Acting Governor

BOSTON (AP)—Kevin H. White, secretary of state only since 11 a.m. Wednesday is Massachusetts' acting governor today. He's only 31.

concur without the delay of a public hearing also, and Gov. Nelson would later be authorized to sign the enactment in typewritten form.

Such arrangements are frequently made in the case of legislative emergencies.

Dodge and LaCrosse County courts now have one branch each. Outagamie County now has two branches and Racine County has three.

A new system of uniform county courts will go into effect in the state next Jan. 1, under enabling legislation approved by the Legislature in 1959.

Latest Moorehead Book On Africa, Its River Nile

"The White Nile," by Alan Moorehead. Published by Harper & Brothers, $5.

Less than a year ago, in a volume entitled "No Room in the Ark," Alan Moorehead demonstrated his interest in and concern for the men and beasts of Africa, that Stone Age continent which has been abruptly brought face to face with the 20th century. "No Room in the Ark," a book-of-the-Month Club selection for February, 1960, was an account of what Moorehead had seen and learned during several leisurely trips from Johannesburg north to Khartoum, now the capital of the independent Republic of the Sudan.

In his newest book, "The White Nile," Moorehead is again in Africa, this time relating the fascinating story of the search for the sources of the great river that struts its way over a thousand miles northward through Egypt to the Mediterranean Sea. "The White Nile" was chosen by the Book-of-the-Month Club judges as part of a double selection for January, 1961, together with "Shadows on the Grass" by Isak Dinesen.

In relatively recent times, Moorehead points out, the region which feeds the Nile south of Khartoum was unexplored territory, virtually as mysterious as the far side of the moon or the unknown world which Columbus set forth to explore in 1492. But between 1856 and 1900 a number of visionary explorers or adventurers, traveling singly or in small parties, managed to pierce the heart of the Dark Continent and thus solve a geographical riddle, which had baffled mankind since the days of Herodotus.

Moorehead has used as sources both his own experiences and those of the explorers themselves—some of them famous, like David Livingstone, General "Chinese" Gordon and Henry Morton Stanley, some largely forgotten, like John Hanning Speke and Emin Pasha, a German Christian who embraced the Moslem faith.

Of these and others who preceded or followed them, Moorehead writes:

"A common hunger for adventure certainly bound them all to Africa . . . The desire to suppress the slave-trade and evangelize the African tribes, the profits to be made from ivory and the hope of discovering gold and other minerals, the collector's and the sportsman's instinct, the simple wish to be the first to break into new country—all these things drew the explorers on."

Violent History

In telling their story, Moorehead tells us well the bloody, violent and exotic history of much of eastern Africa, particularly the Sudan. These Arab slave traders had long been entrenched, and had converted the natives to their faith centuries before the first Christian explorers arrived. The conflict between East and West, between Moslem and Christian in the Sudan, as well as elsewhere in Africa, still goes on and is an important factor in the great political struggle for power in the world today.

Alan Moorehead was born 50 years ago in Melbourne, Australia, but in recent years has made his headquarters in either England or Italy. At the present time he lives with his wife and children in a little village in Tuscany—Tuscany being, as he has said, "convenient to Africa" and Africa having become his consuming interest.

Moorehead began his literary career as a European correspondent for Lord Beaverbrook's Express, and during World War II became a well-known front-line correspondent, primarily in the Middle East and North Africa. His war experiences and observations resulted in several books,

Capitol Buzzing About Choice of GOP's Bubolz to Head Commission

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON—The selection of a prominent Republican as chairman of the advisory commission of a controversial new division of the Democratic state administration has provided fuel for politicians' conversation during the new Wisconsin legislative session.

Bubolz
Gordon Bubolz of Appleton, lawyer and insurance executive, is the new chairman of the board of advisors of the Department of Economic Resource Development. Director of that agency is David Carley, one of Gov. Nelson's most prominent lieutenants and a man refused confirmation by the Republican Senate two years ago.

Nelson has resubmitted Carley's name to the new Republican Senate, where it is unlikely to be approved. But the Capitol is wondering whether Bubolz will intervene with his Republican friends and whether he will be effective if he does.

Credentials Good
The Republican party credentials of the Appleton businessman are in good order. He served several terms as a state senator, is a leader in the GOP organization of historically Republican Outagamie County and was a candidate for party endorsement for the governorship in 1950.

He was named to the advisory commission by Gov. Nelson, and at its organization meeting, without any previous indication of such a plan, he was nominated for the chairmanship of the group and elected unanimously.

Gov. Nelson has indicated that he will reappoint Carley even if the second nomination is refused approval by the Senate, which is legally possible under the act creating the new agency.

Expects More
He has also informed the Legislature that he expects the new department to propose a series of new programs for a more forceful administration of regional and urban planning and resource protection and development.

Bubolz is a leading advocate of a state-led system of water resources conservation through the creation of a new state Water Resources Board. Gov. Nelson has endorsed the proposal, as has a study committee of the Legislative Council. Under the present draft of the enabling act, the new agency would be a division of the Carley department.

THE '61 CHEVY BRINGS JET-SMOOTH TRAVEL DOWN TO EARTH

HERE'S WHAT GIVES CHEVY ITS JET-SMOOTH RIDE—
Full Coil suspension—Nothing cushions like a coil spring at every wheel. Precision-balanced wheels—Each wheel and tire assembly is precision-balanced before installation for smoother rolling with less vibration. Sound-hushing insulation—Roof, side walls, doors, instrument panel, hood, floor, and luggage compartment are carefully insulated against drumming and vibration. 51 built-in "shock absorbers"—the chassis is cushioned against shock and shake at every vital point. Live rubber body mountings—the body is joined to the chassis by large butyl rubber cushions that further isolate the ride from the road.

Better just circle your dealer's block the first time you try a Jet-smooth '61 Chevy. Get anywhere near an open highway and he's liable never to see you again.

What we mean, Chevy's ride whets your yen to travel. Wins you over with its delightful coil-spring smoothness, its hushed comfort and light steering. You find yourself feeling sorry for people who buy higher priced cars, thinking they have to pay premium prices for a luxury ride.

That may have been true at one time, but not any more. Chevrolet's ride, its roadability, just doesn't take second place to anybody's. As for the other pluses people usually expect only from costly cars, nobody can beat Chevy's Body by Fisher for fine workmanship. Notice the roominess, too. Space to stretch out and relax, larger door openings, higher seats, and an easier loading deep-well trunk that handles suitcases as if they were hand-bags.

Unless you work for the manufacturer, can you think of a real good reason for buying a more expensive car? We can't.

Just a Touch of Wine Transforms Ordinary Foods to Gourmet Treats

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

There's a reason why the world's best chefs often use wine in their cooking . . . the fermented juice of the grape makes a wonderful flavoring . . . but even more it blends flavors . . . accents the savoriness of foods and lends both aroma and smoothness to recipes.

It's an idea that any homemaker can borrow for her own uses to make ordinary foods just a little better. With a bit of experimentation she can become a whopping success as a cook and without augmenting the food budget one whit. Add a touch of sherry to cream soups . . . include a tablespoon or two of red or white table wine in salad dressings . . . substitute a half cup of red wine for the same amount of liquid in a stew or pot roast.

Economical cuts of meat and wild game are made more tender if soaked in wine for several hours before cooking . . . wine emphasizes the delicate flavor of fish and tends to neutralize any oily or fishy taste. As for the alcohol in wine, it disappears with cooking since it passes off as a vapor . . . it's the flavor good cooks seek in wine and this they get.

Experimenting with wine cookery can be fun but there also are many recipes available with measured ingredients. Here are a few chosen because they are common dishes, frequently served in most families.

Ham Steak Francois
1 center cut slice uncooked ham
1 cup apricot jam
1 cup Sauterne wine
Trim rind from ham slices. Slash fat along edges in several places to prevent curling. Place ham slice in shallow baking pan. Combine jam and wine. Pour over ham. Bake in a 350 degree oven for one hour. Baste frequently.

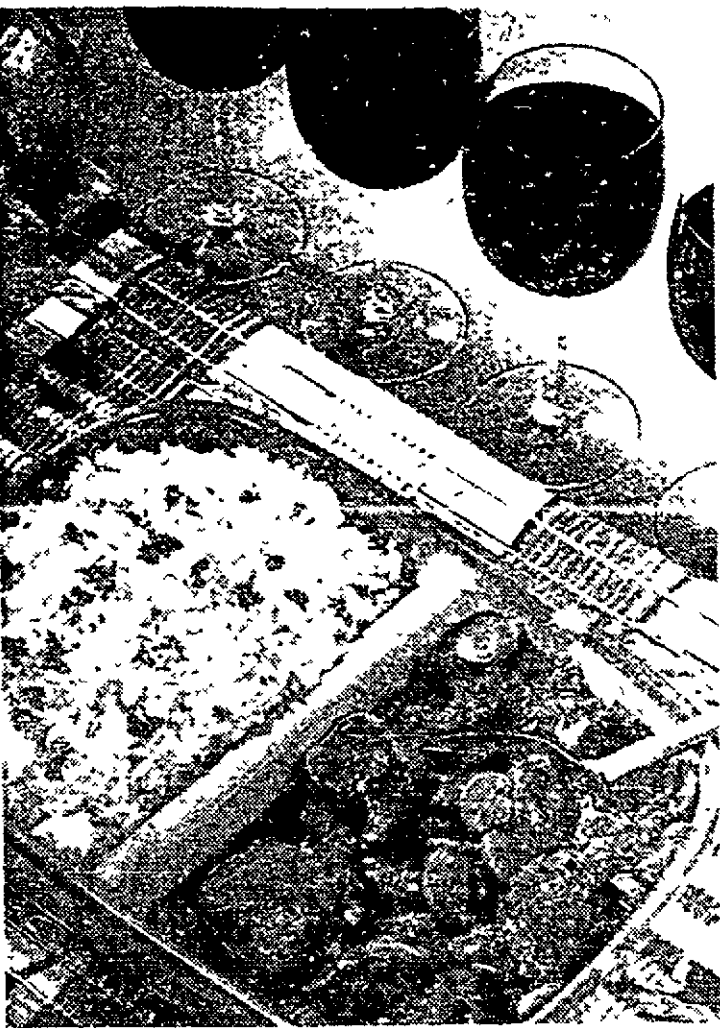

Sherry Spice Cake
Empty contents of two packages white cake mix into bowl. Add one teaspoon cinnamon and one-half teaspoon ground cloves. Instead of using milk or water required for cake, substitute same amount of sherry wine (the liquid will be doubled for two cake mix recipes). Bake according to package directions in two layer cake pans. When cake is cooled, spread with Seafoam Frosting between layers, over top and sides of cake. Sprinkle chopped walnuts or pecans over top of cake.

Seafoam Frosting
2 egg whites
2 cups brown sugar
dash of salt
1/3 cup sherry wine
Combine all ingredients in top of double boiler. Beat with a rotary beater until well blended. Place over boiling water and continue beating for about seven minutes or until frosting holds its shape when beater is pulled through it. Remove from boiling water and continue beating until frosting is stiff enough to spread.

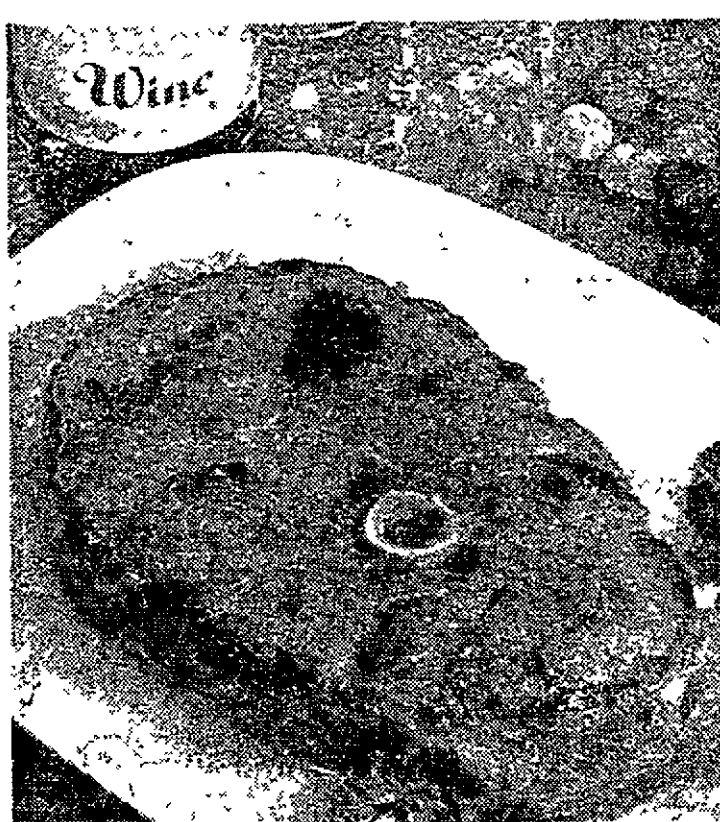

Chicken Livers Saute
1/2 cup butter
1 pound chicken livers, cut in bite-size pieces
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/2 cup flour
1 1/2 cups chicken stock or canned broth
1/2 cup Burgundy or claret wine
1/2 teaspoon Kitchen Bouquet salt, pepper to taste
Melt butter in skillet. Add chicken livers and onion. Saute gently for five minutes, stirring frequently. Remove livers from pan. Add flour to drippings and blend well; add chicken stock and wine, cooking until mixture boils and thickens. Stir constantly while stock cooks and thickens. Add Kitchen Bouquet, salt and pepper. Return livers to sauce; simmer for just a minute or two before serving. Serve on toast or with rice.

Napa Valley Chicken
1 frying chicken, cut in serving pieces flour
salt, pepper to taste
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons salad oil
Dust pieces of chicken with

Turn to Page 2, Col. 7

For Those Who Like Chicken liver dishes, this is a classic treatment. The half-cup of Burgundy or claret wine adds an extra touch of deliciousness. Chicken Livers Saute are especially good with saffron-flavored rice, made by adding a pinch of saffron to the water in which the rice is cooked.

A Thick Slice of Center Cut Ham becomes an out-of-this-world delicacy when it's baked with a topping of apricot jam and white dinner wine. This truly delicious meat is called Ham Steak Francois.

Cheese, Wine and Fruit Long have been a classic dessert, particularly after a heavy meal. But the combination also is becoming a favorite for entertaining. The cheese tray here shows an Edam cheese in the center with slices of Swiss at the left, squares of blue cheese, wedges of aged cheddar topped with white grapes and generous wedges of Camembert.

Sea Foam Frosting Made With a hint of sherry wine gives a party flair to cake. Although an ordinary white cake mix is used, it becomes a spicy cake with a special flavor when ground cinnamon and cloves are added to the prepared product and sherry wine is substituted for the cup of milk or water used to make the batter.

Red Dinner Wine Goes Into This glamor version of Swiss Steak. After the meat is pounded with flour, it simmers for about two hours in a sauce that includes onion, carrots, chopped mushrooms and wine. It's just as easy to prepare as the conventional method, but becomes a superb meat dish when made with this recipe.

The Wonderful Sauce Recipe for this oven-barbecued chicken originated in the Napa valley in California. In this case it is sherry wine that's used. During the cooking process the alcohol of the wine passes off, leaving only a subtle, delicate seasoning.

Flavor Magic

Wine Cookery Goes Back in History

BY DON HOLLAND
of The Wine Institute

A long time ago, some unknown benefactor of the human race performed a daring experiment in cooking which has made mealtime a happier occasion for millions of us.

His logic must have run something like this. "If wine goes so well with the food, why not use wine in the food?" And, with that, this ancient genius proceeded to use half a flagon of wine to baste the roast goat or whatever it was he had turning on the spit.

This inspired act turned out to be a roaring success and it opened a whole new world to those of us who like to pamper our tummies with good food. What he discovered was that wine seems to add as dash of flavor magic when it is used in cooking and this truth is now recognized in every part of the world.

In this country, we find that wine cookery is traditional. Wine has held an honored place in American kitchens since the days when the colonists and the Indians were still trying to run each other out of the country. Many of us would find, if we looked into the matter, that wine figured in some of the recipes that our grandmothers learned from their grandmothers.

Mount Vernon Dishes
Martha Washington, mistress of Mount Vernon and the first lady of "the Presidential Palace" as it was sometimes called, was famed for the excellence of her table. Many of the dishes which were prepared under her guidance included wine.

There has been renewed interest in this matter of cooking with wine during the last few years and that certainly is all to the good. The enjoyment of good eating is a favorite American sport and wine offers one of the simplest and most effective means of making food taste better.

Sherry is a long standing favorite in the kitchen but is far from being the only wine that has a place in cookery. There is a use for almost every wine—appetizer, red table, white table, dessert and even sparkling wines.

Guide for Use
What kinds of wine for what dishes? Well, one handy guide is to use the same types of wine in cooking that would ordinarily be served with the food at the table.

White table wines generally are used in cooking chicken or fish, red table wines in meat dishes. Sherry in soup, and dessert wines in fruit. But like many "rules," this one can be broken at any time the cook feels in an adventurous mood and usually with excellent results. Chicken cooked in red wine, for example, is a classic dish. There are many standard recipes that call for the use of wine and they are available in most cook books, formal recipes are not essential, however. Wine can improve almost any dish if it is added along with the other seasonings and if the cook makes sure that he or she is not applying it with too heavy a hand. Wine is particularly effective when it does its work without asserting itself. What is wanted is the effect of the wine, not the taste of the wine itself.

Hints on Care Of Thermometer

After using a clinical thermometer, wash it by rubbing with cotton dipped into cool sudsy water. Rinse well with fresh cotton and water, and then repeat the sud-sing and rinsing. Dry the thermometer—again with cotton—and return to its case, bulb end first.

The Ailing House Painting Mahogany Woodwork

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

ENAMEL OVER MAHOGANY

Question: We have mahogany finish woodwork throughout our middle-aged house. We would like to gradually finish this in a light-color enamel. Can this be done without the mahogany stain showing through?

Answer: Yes. If the present finish has a gloss, dull it by rubbing with "OO" sandpaper or "O" steel wool, wiping off the dust before applying new coating. Be sure surface is clean and free of all trace of wax, grime, soot, etc. Apply a stain sealer or a coat of aluminum paint. The finish with an enamel undercoater of good quality and the enamel.

CHAIRS MARK WALL

Question: We have a chair at each end of a gate-leg table; these are placed with their backs against the wall and leave a dark streak where they touch. Is there any way to prevent this marking of the wall?

Answer: Adhesive-backed foam rubber stripping or adhesive-backed flannel-type material is available at variety, housewares and hardware stores; this can be applied to the chair backs to prevent marking. Or wood screws, with over-size heads and covered with a pile material, can be screwed into the backs of the chairs.

Today's Etiquette

Most of those in our social group are in their early 40's. We get together informally quite often, but I have noticed that the husbands take over the conversation with shop talk. Naturally, we wives are interested in our husbands' businesses, but we get shut out when the men get talking about it at parties. They forget we exist. Have you any suggestions as to how we can break this up so that we won't be so ignored?

Louise Davis Answers:

You have a challenge and can meet it if you work at it. If your women friends voice the same opinion as yours, perhaps you can do some "ganging up". It calls for a conversational invasion by making yourselves known and asserting yourselves intellectually. There are countless subjects of general interest and surely you can find a common ground. Bone up on current events by reading newspapers and magazines, concentrating on subjects in which the husbands are or would be interested. You might set up a rule for yourself or among yourselves to forbid any topics such as household problems, what you bought on your latest shopping spree, the latest fashion in women's wear, any kind of gossip. Such talk is boring, especially to men. Perhaps you can train yourself in the art of changing the subject at the right time and get your men's attention on something of interest to them.

Children Learn by Careful Observation

BY ANGELO PATRI

so his mother gives him a small. We often overlook the extent package to carry which he does, of the knowledge and its enrich- ing influence that children gain by just sharing in the life about tasks of family living, learning them. When a mother takes a small child along when she does them. At dinner he will feel im- portant as he tells, "I helped deal more than his mother ever brought home. If I hadn't we wouldn't have them. He learns about people. One with the steak, would we, clerk is gracious, smiles at him, Mother?" It is the same when children is all business, waits on his cus- tomer, looks at the next while his mother is still trying to pick their age. They learn by watch- ing up the package and get it into ing, listening, asking questions her shopping bag. The youngster and above all, helping. Even if does not consciously register in the child only holds the tool his mind that one person is ready to hand his father, he is "nice" and another is not, that learning and it is valuable learn- he likes one and does not like ing. Mothers do not think they are teaching "reading readiness," study the vegetables on the stand, something soon to hear about, listens while she asks the prices, when they take the small ones makes her decision, he learns shopping, but they are. Fathers that there is a difference between don't think they are setting the buying one or another, that price foundation for learning the social counts sometimes and sometimes sciences when they take their it does not, and that too, regis- boys on a fishing trip, to the ters in his mind. Slim Lines Characterize First Lady's Ball Gown

BY JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy's gown for Friday night's Inaugural Ball is in sharp contrast to the usually fussy, full-skirted gowns worn by first ladies at inauguration balls.

It is a floor-length sheath with a simple, sleeveless and extreme- ly blousy top.

Made Public The dress — which eventually may wind up among the memo- rabilia at the Smithsonian Institu- tion in Washington — was made public today by the president's press secretary, Pierre Salinger.

The very slim skirt is made of white silk peau d'ange (a sheer silk) veiled with white chiffon. The collarless, sleeveless bodice, richly embroidered in silk and brilliants, is fitted, but it is covered by a transparent, very full overblouse that puffs out like a cloud at the hipbone.

While traveling to and from the three (or four) locations of official inauguration celebrations in the capital Friday night, Mrs. Kennedy will button a floor-length cape around her gown. It is made of the same white silk peau d'ange and is completely veiled in silk triple chiffon.

Arched Cape The cape arches from shoulder to hem with soft waves to the back. It is fastened by twin em- broidered buttons under a ring collar.

The new first lady, highly re- garded for her understated high- fashion sense, is expected to wear 20-button white glaze kid gloves with her ensemble and carry a matching white tailored clutch. Peeking from the neckline of her stride-limiting slim skirt will be white silk opera pumps, medium high.

The designer, Ethel Frankau, of Bergdorf Goodman's, left for Europe without waiting to see Mrs. Kennedy wear her creation at the ball.

The store, which had been guarding the costume sketches as if they were a top secret, refused his to comment on the cost.

A Lovelier You

Make-Up Choices

A lovely writes: I would like to try the make-up that com- bines foundation and powder. But there seem to be so many, I am at a loss about making a choice. Will you please advise me.

Here's the answer, and for ev- eryone who puzzles over a selection among the fast-growing var- iety of two-in-one make-ups: Your skin keys your choice just as it does with a separate base.

For a clear, young skin the water type can be recommended, particularly when it contains lan- olin. Compressed like powder and applied with a dry puff, it pro- duces a flattering, natural bloom.

Cake types, filmed on with a damp sponge, are primarily de- signed to cover flaws and give a mat finish to oily skin. Those formulated with lanolin, however, are considered suitable for dry and normal complexions.

For all but an oily or blemished skin, the newest complete make- up takes the form of a cream or liquid. The effect is sheer and misty — that of fine veiling. Moreover, these products treat the skin, owing to moisturizing and emollient agents.

As for the shade to use, the one that near-matches your own skin tones usually offers the most radiance. But sallow or dark skins may need a shade with a strong dollop of pink; a straight beige would subdue a florid skin.

Capital Newsmen Asked to Leave Party Bloc Meeting Wednesday

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The last vestige of open caucuses in the two houses of the state legislature vanished Wednesday as the assembly majority Republican bloc decided to return to the practice of holding strategy sessions behind closed doors.

The Appleton Post-Crescent correspondent and other newspapermen attached to the legislature were invited to leave the Republican caucus room by Norris Kellman, assembly sergeant-at-arms, when they gathered for the meeting which had been announced from the floor of the legislature earlier.

The correspondents came because the assembly Republicans permitted their attendance when they were in the minority position in the 1959 legislature, and because the only other caucus held thus far this year by lower house members was attended by the press without objection.

When Kellman was asked by what authority he proposed to eject the reporters, he answered that he was acting on behalf of the Republican assemblymen. There had been no previous report of any such action voted by the members, but Kellman insisted that it was their wish.

On With Business

Reporters left and lawmakers proceeded about their party business, involving discussions of bills and resolutions and parliamentary tactics relating to the rival Democratic party bloc.

Assembly Democrats have consistently held closed meetings, when they were in the minority in many earlier years, when they attained majority status in 1959, there because no party has ever created a precedent.

Under legislative rules, backed by statute, law, all regular proceedings of both chambers, and of their many committees, are open to the press and the public.

Both the Republican and Democratic caucuses in the senate have been closed traditionally. The issue of open sessions has not arisen open to the press and the public.

Workers Need Special Okay to Their Work At Guantanamo Base

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's cabinet early today decreed that all civilians—Cuban and foreign—employed at the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay must get special authorization from the Cuban government to continue working there.

Nearly 4,000 Cuban nationals are employed at the big base on the southeast coast. Almost all of them live outside the base.

It is not known if any American civilians employed at the base live outside its confines.

Iola Youth Fined for Driving Too Fast

WAUPACA — David R. Rice, 20, Iola, was fined $50 by Police Justice George Whalen Wednesday for driving too fast for conditions.

County Patrolman Clarence Draeger testified that Rice's car skidded and rolled over on Highway 49 six miles north of Iola Dec. 24.

Two youths were injured, neither of them seriously.

Culinary Success Sets Up New Faust Theme

Devil's Pact Serves as Basis for TV Return for Comedian Sid Caesar

BY JINGO

The way to a man's heart has been so well routed through his stomach the cliché has taken on the coloring of a truism. But what about the pride of excelling in traversing this route? Could pride foretaste a fall? If so, could not this fall be irrevocable? Why not?

On this rather specious syllogism is based Ronald Reagan's Jan. 22 show on CBS, "The Devil You Say!" Besides serving as a return of Sid Caesar to the electronic cyclop, the comedy provides what appears to be a promising twist to the Faust legend.

Caesar appears to be cast as Old Scratch in the person of a gourmet tantalized by a devil's food cake recipe of Patricia Barry, appearing as Ronald Reagan's wife.

The unearthly (Caesar's role is Nick Lucifer) combat for the affections of the fair baker should come up to expectations. The comedy was written by Ira Levin, the author of "No Time For Sergeants" — a top ranking offering.

JFK's 1st News Conference to Be Televised

All Networks to Carry Program at 5 p.m. Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP)—Five days after he takes the oath of office, President John F. Kennedy will hold his first news conference and the nation is invited to attend. All three major networks will focus on the week's major television event Wednesday at 5 p.m.

Tonight's inaugural activities will wind up with the networks covering the Inaugural Ball, commencing at 10:15 p.m. CBS unveils a new comedy panel entry at 9:30 p.m. with Jackie Gleason as host of "You're in the Picture."

Professional golfers go after a $50,000 prize pot in the Bing Crosby golf tourney to be telecast from Pebble Beach, Calif., Sunday (ABC). CBS presents a documentary on a U.S. Army outpost 800 miles from the North Pole in "City Under Ice," and Sid Caesar turns up in a comedy starring Ronald Reagan.

A new hour-long drama series set in the Civil War period, "The Americans," will have its first showing Monday night (NBC). On Tuesday ABC looks into the question of extrasensory perception in a documentary on "Alcoa Presents." NBC repeats its "Life in the 30's" and Jackie Gleason and Arthur Godfrey substitute for Red Skelton on CBS, with an unrehearsed gabfest. Thursday CBS starts the new "CBS Reports" taken ill again Tuesday, probably Presents Face the Nation" with Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., debating the role of the federal government.

Speaking of Caesar and the Neenah Rotary reminds us that the Fox Cities' angels will stage "Once Upon a Mattress" at Appleton High School Jan. 29 instead of the May date. The remake of the Princess and the Pea fable stars Edward Everett Horton and Caesar's old sidekick, Imogene Coca.

Appleton High School and the Appleton High band will be background for the annual appearance of the world's greatest trumpeter, Rafael Mendez. That billing is not just a sure fire draw, there's more than a little truth in it. The show will be Feb. 9 and the tickets are on sale at Heid's Music store.

On Feb. 7 NBC will air "A String of Beads" on the "Story of Love" with Jane Fonda as the star. Miss Fonda and her daddy, Henry, are making something like history on Broadway. She's starring in "Invitation to a March" with Helen Hayes' son, James MacArthur, as her costar. Down the pike a ways is Daddy in "Critic's Choice."

The last time the Democrats took over control from the Republicans, the banks were closed. This time two Broadway shows will close for a night, "Gypsy" and "Becket," to allow Ethel Merman, Sir Laurence Olivier and Anthony Quinn to appear in the inaugural Gala. It is hoped that it is not a sign of the things to come, but part of the TV coverage of the inaugural will be sponsored on one network by a loan association foundation.

Hollywood Attorney, Jerry Giesler, III

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood attorney Jerry Giesler, 74, CBS starts the new "CBS Reports" taken ill again Tuesday, probably Presents Face the Nation" with Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., debating the role of the federal government.

Mrs. Nona Mari, 29, of suburban Winnipeg, Canada, won the 1961 Metropolitan Opera regional auditions in Minneapolis. The Canadian soprano sang a Mozart aria to be first among 11 finalists. She won $300 and now is eligible to compete in national semi-finals.

Marilyn's Ex Advises

Playwright Says Hate Must Turn Into Love

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Hate is all right if you know how to resolve it into love, but it will kill you if you have to live with it," said playwright Arthur Miller. After separating two months ago from his actress wife, Marilyn Monroe, Miller moved into a hotel suite.

On a table in the living room rests the published script of a movie he wrote, costarring Miss Monroe, Clark Gable and Montgomery Clift. Originally a short story, it is based on material Miller gained during a stay in Reno, where he obtained a divorce from his first wife before marrying Marilyn in 1956.

The new book version has this dedication: "To Clark Gable, who did not know how to hate." "Actually, Clark did know how to hate," said Miller, "but in a short time it was dissolved. He was a wonderfully positive man."

Wrote At 19 "Clark could keep the balance so well. I never knew anyone like him."

Miller, a lanky man with furrowed Lincolnian features that crinkle often in a friendly grin, worked as a stock clerk to earn money to go to college. He wrote his first play at 19, turned out 10 failures before clicking with "All My Sons" in 1947.

The dramatist, who won a Pulitzer Prize with "Death of a Salesman," quit Hollywood because "I couldn't stand anyone looking over my shoulder." He finds writing a lonely but rewarding life.

"The greatest pleasure anyone can have is to create something beautiful."

Miller says he isn't sure what his philosophy is — or even that he has one.

"I follow my nose in a situation," he said. "I hope I'm a civilized man — and that's about as far as I can go."

Theater Stinks "I think we know a great deal about everything except how to live together, and I suppose my plays are an attempt to unearth what is preventing us from doing that."

"We've developed a world which is great for everybody but people. It produces a lot of goods, but it doesn't let people flower and realize themselves."

Asked his opinion of the current American theater, he said crisply: "It stinks. It's in a by-way."

"It isn't dealing with the cogent theme of our times, the problem we are all up against. That problem is the dilemma between individualism that can become anarchy and conformity that can turn us all into human ciphers."

"It is not enough any longer merely to decry conformity or exalt individualism."

"We have to create a new standard of values to accommodate ourselves to this dilemma."

Board of Personnel Approves Revisions In State Pay Plan

MADISON (AP) — The State Board of Personnel has approved revisions in the state employee pay plan which would add $5.1 million to salaries and worker benefits during the next two years.

The action was taken despite objections from the Wisconsin State Employees Association. They were registered Tuesday by Roy Kubism, executive director of the Association, and centered on the plan's proposed enactment of a selective application of longevity.

Major changes called for in the proposal, which now goes to the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee, are separate salary schedules in three general classifications, an increase in maximum sick leave from 60 to 90 days, incorporation of monthly bonuses—currently amounting to $81—with basic salaries, and granting workers a payday every two weeks instead of once a month. The state employs about 16,500 civil service workers.

U. S. Plywood Earnings, Sales Drop From '60

President Predicts $3 Per Share, Down From $5 Year Ago

U.S. Plywood Corp. will "be very lucky" if earnings in the current quarter come to half the $1.09 a share earned a year earlier, Gene C. Brewer, president, said in an interview.

If the normal seasonal upturn occurs in the fourth fiscal quarter, Mr. Brewer said, the company expects to earn "somewhere around $3-plus" a share for the fiscal year ending April 30, down sharply from $5.10 a share in fiscal 1960. He said sales are expected to decline 5 per cent from fiscal 1960's $276,244,000.

Sales in the third fiscal quarter, ending Jan. 31, also should be down from the $83,709,000 reported a year earlier, he said.

Brewer blamed the decline mainly on low prices and demand for fir plywood, which accounts for about 40 per cent of U.S. Plywood's sales. The company curtailed output of sanded plywood for the show. Miss Nolan, 26, was to 75 per cent of capacity in Noember and expects to maintain that rate through this month, he said.

Fir plywood prices for the current fiscal year have been "the worst in the last 19 years," Brewer said.

Reduced demand from home builders contributed heavily to the price decline, Mr. Brewer said. Housing starts in calendar 1960 fell to about 1,200,000 from more than 1,500,000 in 1959.

Ordering of plywood for spring use normally begins late in January, Brewer said, but this year the company feels orders may come a little later than usual because deliveries are easier to get.

Dividend Safe

The 50-cent quarterly dividend rate is "safe," Mr. Brewer said, but paying it will raise dividends to 60 per cent to 65 per cent of earnings from the usual 50 per cent.

Except for a short closing last summer, U.S. Plywood's facility in the Congo has not been affected by political unrest there. The company, in participation with Belgian interests, has a $250,000 investment in the Congo. The facility is about 100 miles from Leopoldville.

Horse Throws Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — TV actress Kathy Nolan, a star of the "Real McCoys" TV series, was thrown from a horse Wednesday during the filming of a sequence for the show. Miss Nolan, 26, was hospitalized for observation.

Lawrence Says Religious Issue May Backfire In School Aids Cardinal Spellman Says Parochial Bodies Deserve Help BY DAVID LAWRENCE WASHINGTON—Nearly $10 billion for education—for schools and colleges, for buildings, for teachers' salaries, that's what a task force recommended to President-elect Kennedy as an over-all program to be carried out in the next five years. This recommendation unwittingly raises certain aspects of the so-called "religious issue" that came up in the campaign. Cardinal Spellman has been quick to protest publicly that Catholic schools must not be excluded from receiving federal funds. "For who is going to furnish all this money? Taxpayers of every religious faith and of every race and color. The use of federal funds to help build a school or to help poor students get an education or to help pay teachers' salaries is regarded today as constitutional, but the Civil Rights Commission, in its latest report, recommends that 'no federal agency or official shall be given power to direct, supervise or control the administration, curricula or personnel of an institution operated and maintained by a state or a political subdivision thereof.' Penalizing Taxpayer If that's the case and the federal government is to furnish money without interfering with what is actually taught in the educational institutions of the country, then why should any private schools be discriminated against and deprived of public funds? Cardinal Spellman says in a public statement: "It is unthinkable that any American child be denied the federal funds allotted to other children which are necessary for his mental development because his parents choose for him a God-centered education. "To me, it is unthinkable that Congress would deny a child funds to study mathematics, science and languages simply because his parents simply additional funds for the study of religion. This would be penalizing both the child and his parents because of their religious beliefs. "For many millions of American parents, this means that they will be taxed more than ever before for the education of their children, but they cannot expect any return from their taxes unless they are willing to transfer their children to a public grade or high school. "Thought Control" The Cardinal goes on to say that he cannot believe Congress will "use economic compulsion to force parents to relinquish their right to have religion taught to their children." He declares that any program of federal aid should grant "equal educational privileges regardless of the school they attend" and that the proposals of the task force "are blatantly discriminating" against church-related school children and their parents. He says it would deprive them of "freedom of mind and freedom of religion guaranteed by our country's constitution whose first amendment was adopted to protect the individual person from government repression—the very danger implicit in the proposed program of the task force." The Cardinal refers to the 6,800,000 children now in parochial and private schools and says that, if Congress adopts the program, it will be engaging in "thought control." On the same day the Cardinal was speaking, the board of regents of New York State announced that it had recommended to Gov. Rockefeller a plan whereby $18.2 million a year would be given by the state to private colleges and universities to help them expand. To bypass constitutional difficulties about granting aid to private institutions which teach religious subjects, the plan would award $200 a year to each college student personally, as a part of scholarship. President-elect Kennedy said during the last campaign: "Federal aid should only go to public schools. The principle of church-state separation precludes aid to parochial schools, and private schools enjoy the abundant resources of private enterprise." Mr. Kennedy may not venture to back away from that position for fear of criticism, but it raises a question of whether, if Mr. Nixon had been elected president, he might have urged the action that New York State now is considering. The principle is just the same as that adopted by Congress in providing the funds for education to veterans of World War II and the Korean War under the "GI Bill of Rights." Cardinal Spellman says that under a law passed in 1952 federal funds went to students who used them in 474 Protestant, 265 Catholic and five Jewish institutions of higher learning. Also, he points out, under a 1956 law, Congress provides for direct grants to students whose fathers died as a result of World War or the Korean conflicts, and many now use the money to pay tuition in church-related colleges. It makes one wonder whether a president who is not a Catholic is able to do more for the parents of Catholic pupils than Mr. Kennedy may wish to do. If so, the "religious issue" will have backfired in all directions. (Copyright, 1961)

Hornung Is First Non-Brave to be Named Wisconsin's Athlete of Year

Packer Halfback Barely Edges Spahn; Crandall, Taylor Next

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Paul Hornung, the Green Bay Packers' great halfback who shattered the National Football League scoring record, today was named Wisconsin's Athlete of the Year for 1960. Hornung's tremendous output of 176 points, in helping the Packers to the Western Division title with an 8-4 mark, enabled him to edge Milwaukee Braves southpaw ace Warren Spahn in the annual Associated Press poll of Wisconsin sports writers and sportscasters.

Paul Hornung

In winning the NFL scoring championship for the second straight year, Hornung scored 15 touchdowns, booted 41 straight extra points and connected on 13 of 28 field goal attempts. His point total broke the record of 138 points by Green Bay's Don Hutson in 1942.

Spahn, who will be 40 in April, barely was nosed out in a bid to capture the Wisconsin Athlete of the Year award for the third time. He won 21 games, including the first no-hitter of his brilliant career last season to move with 12 victories of the charmed 300 mark.

Rally Gives St. Norbert Fifth Straight Cage Win Over Lawrence

Vikes Lose, 77-69, Despite Shooting 45 Per Cent

WEST DE PERE — Lawrence College led most of the way here Wednesday night, but St. Norbert's basketball Green Knights rallied to pull out a 77-69 win. The non-conference victory was the fifth in the last six starts for St. Norbert which is now 5-7 on the season. It was the Knights' fifth straight victory over Lawrence.

The Vikings have now lost four in a row and are 5-7 on the season. They have begun a 2½-week respite for semester exams.

Lawrence lost Wednesday despite shooting 45 per cent from the floor (29 for 65). The hosts shot 38 per cent (30 for 78). The losers hit 65 per cent from the foul line (11 for 17) to the Knights' 55 per cent (17 for 31).

Scoring Honors
Jim Rasmussen took Lawrence's scoring honors with 16 points, while double-figure support was given by: Chuck Knoke, 13; Jim Schulze, 11, and Marty Gradman, 10.

A pair of Two Rivers dandies, Ron Brault and John Kopronski, stayed right on their per-game averages with 22 and 17 points, respectively, to lead the winners.

Lawrence lost starter Joe Lam- Stengel

Before covered up further, we should acknowledge this basic truth: any manager's success is closely related to the quality of his players. Casey Stengel, who led tail-enders as well as world champions, is the classic example of how a manager's fate can be determined by the caliber of his players.

Between these relatively infrequent extremes, the quality of leadership becomes important. If two teams are evenly matched, talentwise, the one with the more astute manager is going to win an extra half-dozen or dozen close games a year — which is enough to spell the difference between an ordinary season and a successful one.

Perhaps a manager's most important regular decision concerns the changing of pitchers. If pitching is 70 per cent or more of the game — and there's little reason to doubt this estimate — it figures that sensing when to remove a pitcher and what kind of a reliever to use in a given situation is all important.

Speaking of managers, the Cities Foxes' Earl Weaver reports an addition to his family since last summer — a big German shepherd. The dog may accompany the Weavers here for the '61 season.

The way to stop Green Bay West is to stop Way.

This thoroughly-tested formula will figure strongly in the battle plans of the Appleton High School basketball team Friday night.

Way, who has been described by East Coach Carl Sunby as "The lefty who drives like a bull," is averaging 20.5 for a slim FRVC lead over runnerup Al Esther (20-5) of Fond du Lac.

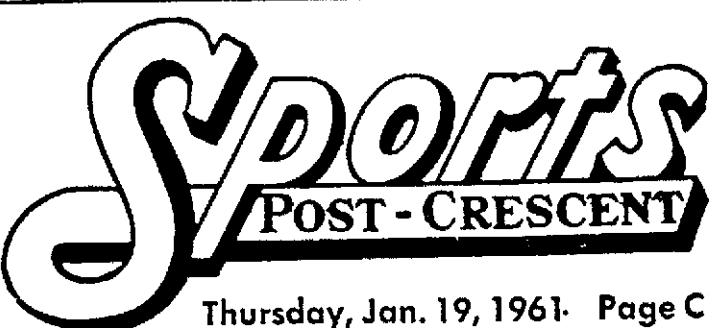

Rick Boyce, the No. 8 scorer in the league; letterman guard Jim Hennig and newcomer Gene Dahl (the tallest Wildcat, at 6-2) are other offensive threats. But, Way is the key to GBW hopes.

AHS Coach Dick Emanuel's starting array for the 8:15 p.m. tip-off in the Franklin Junior High Gym, will include three of the conference's top 10 scorers. Pete Treiber, the league's most prolific backcourt point-man, ranks fifth, overall, with a 17.5 average. Dick Rankin stands seventh, and Marty Schultz, tenth.

Competing the starting unit will be Jerry Gendron, who averaged 14.5 in the last two games; and Jeff Martin, who found his shooting eye in the team's latest game (against South).

Schultz has been bothered by a pulled thigh muscle in his right leg. Despite this trouble, the high-scoring senior grabbed 23 rebounds in last weekend's two games (against Oshkosh and South). Rankin was second, with 18; and Al Vandenberg had 12.

Van Brocklin Gets 3-Year Contract as Coach of Vikings

Great Quarterback, Through as Active Player, Starts New Job

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP)—The restless Dutchman embarked today on a new career as head coach of the Minnesota Vikings, bringing with him the prestige of a great quarterback and the prospect of fireworks.

Norm Van Brocklin, named to direct the fledgling National Football League club Wednesday under a three-year contract, made no pledges of radical offenses or forecasts of quick success.

But he made this point: "We'll use the orthodox T formation with most of the variations. You can bet, too, that we'll throw that football plenty if we have to."

None of that throwing will be by Van Brocklin, for 12 years one of the premier marksmen in the NFL and the guiding hand last season behind the Philadelphia Eagles' ascent to the league championship.

Van Brocklin, 34, is through as an active player, "with no re-

Kimberly Drops to Ninth; Terrors Gain No. 10 Position

Milwaukee North's Blue Devils, winners of all of their 10 games this season, have supplanted Stevens Point as the top team in the state's "Big 16."

Stevens Point, which lost to Wisconsin Rapids last weekend, dropped from first to fifth in the weekly ratings released by the state high school basketball tournament committee.

Kimberly and Appleton remained the only Fox Cities area teams on either the "Big 16" or the "Little 16."

Despite scoring a 67-59 win over New London, Kimberly's Papermakers were dropped from seventh to ninth.

AHS, which won twice last weekend, was moved up from twelfth to tenth place.

Cedar Grove (13-0) remained the "Little 16" leader. Among the honorable mention teams were Shiocton (8-1) and Manawa (9-2).

Ferguson Will Undergo Eye Surgery

Injury May Cut Career Short After Fine AFL Comeback

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Former Green Bay fullback Howie Ferguson, who made a fine comeback with the Los Angeles Chargers of the American Football League the past season, will be operated upon Monday for an eye injury which threatens to cut short his career.

Dr. William Trumbull, the Chargers' team physician, said the success of the surgery will decide Ferguson's future as a pro football player.

Ferguson, whose tremendous running and blocking helped Los Angeles win the championship of the fledgling AFL, suffered a detached retina of the right eye in the title playoff game with Houston.

He played six years with the Green Bay Packers before being released in 1959 because of a shoulder ailment. He joined the Chargers last fall and was described by Los Angeles coach Sid Gilman as "the best blocker in pro ball."

McMillan, Bolling Hope They Can Solve Braves' Infield Problem

Challenge Welcomed By New Players in Milwaukee Visit

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Two new Milwaukee Braves infielders who were here today to talk contract terms with the baseball club's top brass expressed the hope that they would provide the solution to the team's infield problem.

The men, acquired by the Braves in trades recently are Roy McMillan, a shortstop, and Frank Bolling, a second baseman.

"It's definitely a challenge," said McMillan, who came here from Cincinnati. "I am as thrilled as I can be with the opportunity to be with a contending club—and I will try to make the most of it any way I can to bring the pennant back to the Braves."

Bolling, who was obtained from the Detroit Tigers, said he welcomed the opportunity to prove to himself to the Milwaukee fans.

he said. It is up to the manager. I'm going to do the best I possibly can. If John wins out, I'm going to do everything else I can to win ball games.

"The Braves have been looking for a second base combination for some time. If Frank Bolling and will be gunning for their sixth consecutive road victory and seventh in a row, overall. They'll need the victory if they are to remain tightly astern of the unvanquished Manitowoc Ships, which should have smooth sailing as hosts to last-placed Green Bay East.

In lieu of important height, West (4-5) has relied on speed and shooting accuracy. Physically, the team is much like Sheboygan South—and it wouldn't surprise anyone if, like the Redmen, they tried pressing the Terrors. AHS didn't handle the press too well in the second half against South, and Emanuel has sought to remedy the situation this week.

The Terrors have the fast-break potential to make life uncomfortable for any would-be pressers. They are averaging 65.5 points a game—still the conference's highest rate. West is averaging 61.3. Defensively, AHS has an edge of 56.8 to 62.0 over GBW.

"Spider" Kloss will be seeking to break a coaching jinx against Emanuel. Kloss' LA-Crosse Central team lost to AHS in the 1956 state tournament and his initial Wildcat machine lost twice (58-45 and 61-50) to the Terrors last season. However, the 'Cals and AHS eventually finished with co-championship records of 10-4.

Rams Working On Deal for Lindon Crow

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams are working on a deal that would bring defensive back Lindon Crow of the New York Giants to Los Angeles.

The Rams made a pitch for Crow, former University of Southern California star, early in the 1959 season, but a trade failed to jell when New York decided it would not be wise to part with any defensive strength.

Presumably, one of the considerations of Crow's signature to his 1960 contract with New York was that he would be traded to Los Angeles, his home. The question is what the Rams will have to give up for him.

League style. The wide-open style of play, plus the individual brilliance of John Unitas, Norm Van Brocklin, Lenny Moore, Tommy McDonald, Sonny Randle, Jim Taylor and others almost assuredly won new friends for the NFL across the nation.

Marquette Coach Eddie Hickey says Don Kojis, his 6-foot-5 scoring ace, has the quickest recovery for a second rebound attempt of any player he has ever coached. You'll get a chance to judge Kojis' talent for yourself Jan. 28 when the Warriors appear on TV (Channel 11) opposite Bradley.

A Baltimore writer reports that the main reason for Jim McLaughlin's resignation as Oriole farm director was friction with Manager Paul Richards. McLaughlin declared he was no "Yes man" and walked out — apparently into private business.

With Sioux City
Howser joined the Shreveport club in mid-season, after hitting .349 at Sioux City, and triggered the Sports to a blazing finish that left them just half a game behind Atlanta in the battle for the Southern Association pennant.

After joining the Sports, Howser, a 5-9, 155-pounder, batted .338 in 88 games, striking out only 16 times in 331 at bats.

Another fine prospect, still on the Shreveport roster, is Dan Pfister, 24, a pitcher, who bagged 13 of 18 decisions, after his discharge from the Army late in June.

Eight of the 17 recruits are Shreveport graduates. The most interesting of these is outfielder, Leo Posada, 23, a Cuban who drilled 12 home runs, drove home 122 runs to lead the league, and hit .314. Another worthy is first baseman Jim McManus, who socked 32 home runs and batted .304.

Xavier Hands Louisville Second Straight Defeat

CHICAGO (AP)—Purdue's Terry Dischinger, averaging 35 points against two lesser contenders, will try to retain his Big Ten basketball scoring lead against front-running Iowa Saturday night.

Dischinger, who racked up 70 points against Minn. (1-2) and Northwestern (0-3), will try to put the finger on an Iowa quintet, which is unbeaten in four conference starts.

The Boilermaker cager may have some difficulty doing that. Dischinger had five stitches taken on the middle finger of his right hand after a chemistry lab mishap Tuesday.

Official conference statistics today disclosed a hot two-man scoring race between Dischinger and Ohio State's Jerry Lucas, who has a two-game average of 32.5. Saturday night, Lucas leads Ohio State (2-0), the nation's top team in the AP poll, against Minnesota.

Third in Scoring

Other leaders include John Tisdell, Michigan 21.6; Don Nelson, Iowa 18.0; Jerry Colangelo, Illinois 17.3; Dick Hall, Michigan 17.2; Frank Allen, Iowa 16.5; and Tom Bolyard, Indiana, and Larry Siegfried, Ohio State, each with 16.0.

Bellamy is the conference's best rebounder with 17 recoveries per game for two contests.

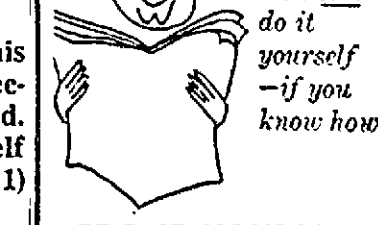

In team statistics, Ohio State has developed a fine balance between scoring and defense. The Buckeyes have averaged 83 points per game, based on a 50 per cent field goal accuracy, and have yielded only 55 points per game.

Only in rebounding do the Buckeyes yield an important statistical edge. Led by Bellamy, Indiana is the top rebounding club with an average of 64 recoveries.

The hosts moved in front for the first time, 44-43, after five minutes of the second half on Koprowski's long hook shot. Schulze hit a jump shot to put the Vikings back on top, 45-44, and Lawrence increased its bulge to eight (52-44) with 13:00 to go.

With Lawrence ahead, 54-51, and about 10:00 showing, Lamers foul-ed Koprowski as John scored. He converted the free throw (and Lamers was disqualified) for a 54-44 deadlock. Koprowski poured in the game's next goal for a 56-54 lead and the Knights never again trailed.

Lawrence was still within two (64-62) with 6:00 left.

Eggs Thrown As St. Louis Stuns Celtics

Chamberlain Hits 48 Points, but Philadelphia Loses

BOSTON (AP)—While the coaches wrestled over a microphone, brash rookie Len Wilkens helped the feared St. Louis forward stun Boston's champions for the third straight time.

Egg throwing preceded a plea by Celtics Coach Red Auerbach over the public address microphone just before the half Wednesday night. Rival pilot Paul Seymour literally pulled the plug on Red.

Afterward both were sorry a few fans had spoiled the game with an occasional egg.

Auerbach was the more sorry. His NBA champs lost 125-114.

The only cheering thought Auerbach had was that Philadelphia dropped the doubleheader opener, 129-118 to Syracuse even though Wilt Chamberlain tossed in 48 points. Thus the Celts maintained a three game Eastern Division lead.

Detroit whipped Cincinnati, minus Oscar Robertson, for the eighth time 144-128 in other league action.

Muskies Useful in Lakes Choked With Stunted Perch

MADISON (AP)—A five-year experiment by two University of Wisconsin scientists indicates that lakes now choked with stunted perch may be capable of producing muskies 30 inches or larger.

UW lakes and fisheries researchers James Gammon and Arthur D. Hasler reported Wednesday that perch lakes which now offer fishermen small challenge also can maintain good populations of small mouth bass.

Gammon and Hasler disclosed findings of an experiment begun in 1956 when they planted 10-inch fingerling muskies in George Lake and Corrine Lake, both Vilas County bodies overpopulated with perch and without any muskies at the time.

Within One Year
The researchers said that the muskies reduced the perch population in striking fashion within one year in George Lake and within three years in Corrine Lake.

Two 30-inch muskies were caught last summer in Corrine Lake and it is expected increasing numbers will reach the legal size within the near future.

Gammon and Hasler noted that an overabundance of perch destroy game fish fry and fingerlings and keep populations of those fish at low levels. Muskies are particularly useful in meeting the problem.

The researchers, who plan muskie stocking tests in other lakes, reported that muskies do not increase greatly in number but maintain a constant population. Thus, the muskies do not overeat the food supply and become stunted, but instead grow into hard to catch prizes.

The UW scientists noted that muskies are a rough and hardy species and lakes could be stocked with as few as three muskie fingerlings per acre.

Van Brocklin To Coach Minnesota '11'

Owners Aglow
Vikings' owners were aglow over the acquisition of Van Brocklin. They needed a man of national stature to lend his reputation to their inaugural year in the competitive jungle of the NFL. They also needed the savvy of a NFL vet to help them pick the 36 players from the league pool who will form the core of the Vikings' roster.

Van Brocklin, of course, is untested as a coach. Yet General Manager Bert Rose expressed confidence that he has the ability to make it.

The Vikings declined to reveal salary terms. It was assumed, however, that Van Brocklin stands to make somewhere around $75,000 in the three years, the exact figure depending on attendance, year-to-year improvement and other factors.

Van Brocklin plans to name four assistants, two for defense, one as offensive line coach and one as end coach. Not surprisingly, he will handle the offense himself.

Appeal to Lions' Stockholders for Proxy Support

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions' management committee, fighting back at a rebel group trying to unseat the present management of the National Football League club, Wednesday formally appealed to stockholders for proxy support.

The management group, consisting of 14 of the club's directors, lambasted the efforts of dissident stockholders, calling the rival campaign "one of innuendoes, rumors, half-truths, and vague, unsupported charges."

The management committee, headed by William Clay Ford of the auto family, sent proxy material to the 143 stockholders who own the 12,600 shares of stock in the football club.

L. P. Voigt Cites Park Fees Charged by Other States

MADISON (AP) — Lester P. Voigt, State Conservation Department Director, contends that Wisconsin is one of the few states in the Midwest that does not charge admission to its parks.

The director said in an interview Wednesday that Illinois and Minnesota charge admission and Michigan plans to begin doing so this summer. The province of Ontario also has an admission fee.

Voigt has proposed that the Legislature pass a bill for a $2 annual automobile sticker for admission to Wisconsin parks. The measure would raise about $500,000 for forestry and parks work, he said.

Voigt said that the department also is supporting legislation that would:

Require a $1 trout stamp for trout fishermen; provide for a $1 pheasant stamp for pheasant hunting; increase resident small game and large game hunting license fees by $1 each; require a resident bow and arrow hunting license fee of $5; increase nonresident bow and arrow licenses by $5; increase fishing license fees $1; boost voluntary sportsmen's

National Boat Show Features Something for Every Taste

NEW YORK (AP) — If you have $86,000 left over after the Christmas bills are paid, the National Boat Show has just the item for you—a super duper 47-foot cruiser that sleeps six. You want status? Seek no more.

If you can manage $295, you might be interested in a 5-foot ice boat that skims along at 45 miles an hour, unless you head too far south or come upon a covey of skaters.

If you are in hock until spring, come along to the Coliseum anyhow. The pamphlets are keen, and you meet the nicest people.

There is this man in a dark suit who stands inside a booth and invites people to get into his boat. "Get in. Try it yourself. It can't sink."

The boat is firmly anchored on the ground, but the would-be sailors get a kick out of a simulated boat ride with the help of a movie screen.

When you get your ground legs back again, you might want to stop by another of the 445 exhibits of boats, motors and marine accessories for one of the fastest growing sports. Joe Choate, manager of the show and secretary of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, will quote you figures to show 8,025,000 boats were used by 40,125,000 people in 1960.

The board of directors of National Tea Co. declared the first quarterly dividend for 1961, amounting to 20 cents per share. The dividend will be payable March 1 to all shares of the company's $4 par value common stock on record as of Feb. 10. This brings to 66 the number of consecutive regular quarterly dividends paid on National Tea Co. common.

Unemployment Sticker Says 'Made in Japan'

BY VICTOR RIESEL

CHICAGO—There's a new campaign sticker on auto bumpers in town. It reads: "Unemployment—Made in Japan."

It's part of a drive by some folks who like to eat—not sumptuously, just regularly. There's a good chance that they might not.

They're among the 700,000 electronic workers made jobless by imports from Japan. The stickers are part of a "Buy American" campaign launched recently by Frank Darling, leader of the Electrical Brotherhood's Local 1031. This is a huge local which covers the shops which "feed" the inner parts and gadgets to almost 85 per cent of the radio and television industry.

For months now, Darling has watched his membership being slashed from 47,000 to 23,000 by the razor-edged sales policies of Japanese competitors.

Losing People, Jobs

He has been losing his people at the rate of more than 1,000 a month—9,000 in eight months, to be exact. Every member lost means a job permanently wiped out. Every vanishing American job means vanishing sales and profits for the U.S. electronics industry. Furthermore, of those whose still are lucky enough to hold on, thousands are working a 4-day week.

Because this is the story of a score of U.S. industries, I checked it out in detail. In the first six months of '60 Japan sold $38,700,000 worth of electrical and electronic equipment in our country.

Compare this with $22,100,000 in the same period of '59. This means that we took half of Japan's total production in this field. The Japanese, for example, sent us 69 per cent more radio receivers in this first half of last year than they did in the same six months of the previous year. Radio phonographs were up 92 per cent! Sound recorders skyrocketed 294 per cent. So it went with radio and TV speakers, condensers, receiving tubes, and transistors.

The merchants operating in Japan pay a 10½ per cent tax on each TV set they sell here. But they slap a 25 per cent tax on every American-made set sold in Japan.

Can't Be Beastly

Of course, everybody understands that in the tense international-political-economic warfare sweeping the world, it would not

Scots Protest New Polaris Sub Base

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Scots objecting to the new base for American Polaris-firing submarines in Holy Loch have organized a nuisance fleet of small boats to harass the first vessel next month.

The committee for non violent action said today the action is "passive resistance" to show opposition to the base.

"If possible we shall place ourselves in small boats in the path of the Polaris submarines as they enter the Holy Loch," the committee said in a statement.

Lookouts will be posted to light beacon flares when the first submarine is sighted, as the Scots did when Viking invaders approached more than 1,000 years ago.

be right to be beastly to Nippon. In fact, Darling and his colleagues winced and dined a Japanese labor delegation in Chicago last year.

He took them through the most efficient factories here and tried to plant in the minds of the Japanese union chiefs the urgency for raising wages back home.

If they could increase the Japanese workers' take-home pay and insist on pension and welfare payment to their people, perhaps the Oriental production costs would rise a little. So would their prices. Then the competitive edge would not be so broad. But the Japanese ate, drank and were merry. They did very little about anything back home.

So Darling worked up his campaign. He conferred with depression areas chief Sen. Paul Douglas. Darling suggested that a law be passed permitting low or duty-free imports to be sold here only by foreign manufacturers who paid their people a minimum wage of a dollar an hour.

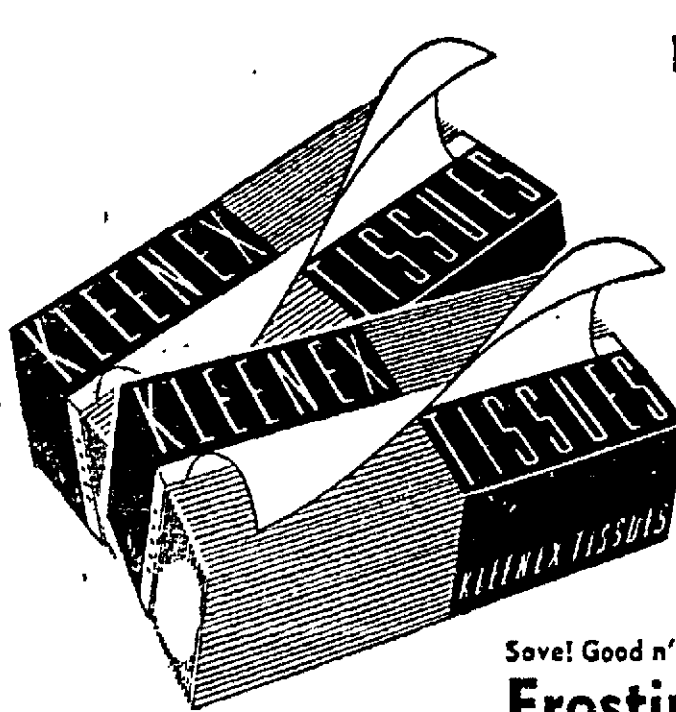

Would Raise Wages
Thus there would be no tariff wall. We would actually be raising the wages of foreign slave-shop workers.

Thus, our foreign competitors could run their shops in two sections—one for the U.S. market at decent wages, the other at a wage meager enough to make sales in low-income land and underdeveloped lands. How could the Soviet propagandists attack us as economic imperialists for that?

To promote his "Buy American" campaign, Darling plans to run mass rallies all over Chicago. He will organize "unemployment squads" to make the city rounds and tell their story.

That story is "Unemployment—Made in Japan." To lend a helping hand to others is fine, says Darling. But what happens when that hand grows weak? Who will help whom then?

Kennedy to Set Tone Of His Term Tomorrow

Expected to Try to Arouse Nation
In Address to Danger of Communism

BY JOSEPH ALSOP
WASHINGTON — Tomorrow, John F. Kennedy will first speak out as the thirty-fifth president of the United States.

Alsop
what note will be struck, what tone will be set.

The picture the new President will paint of the national situation will contrast sharply with the picture his predecessor has been painting for the last eight years. It will be somber, not rosy, realistic rather than reassuring. But this much altered picture will be left to tell its own story, without any addition of political recriminations.

The tone that is set will derive rather directly from the new President's belief that this moment in history has a special, even unprecedented character of its own. He stated that belief, which is the real key to Kennedy's view of the world, in the key passage of his speech accepting the Democratic nomination.

"We must prove all over again whether this nation . . . can long endure," he told the somewhat startled Democrats in Los Angeles. "We must prove) whether our society, with its freedom of choice, its breadth of opportunity, its range of alternatives, can compete with the single-minded advance of the Communist system."

Mortal Struggle
This deeply held belief, that we are in the midst of a mortal struggle which literally imperils our national survival, will no doubt be restated tomorrow. From it will derive the main note struck. This will be a call to greater national effort and sacrifice to win this mortal struggle. But this call will be balanced, one can predict further, with a restatement of Kennedy's other deeply held belief, that a truly united, re-invigorated America putting forth its full effort need have nothing to fear even in these grave times.

It is instructive, in this connection, that "blood, sweat and tears" was the Kennedy staff's summary of the President-elect's first rough sketches of the crucial inaugural address. The implied comparison with Winston Churchill was not intended, even by Kennedy's most loyal subordinate, to suggest any similarity between the two men. But it was certainly intended to suggest a certain similarity between the attitudes and viewpoints of the two men.

Situation Different
In this limited sense, the comparison is far from irrelevant, except in the phrasing. Yet the phrasing is vital, because Kennedy does not take office, as Churchill took office, with the enemy audibly hammering on the gates.

Imagine, rather, the retirement of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin in a storm of acclamation. Imagine that at this juncture, while England still slept in Kennedy's own phrase, Neville Chamberlain had been narrowly defeated for the premiership. Imagine further that the new prime minister had been not the great Churchill but a much younger, less eloquent, more pragmatic man sharing Churchill's estimate of his somnolent country's future dangers.

That exercise of the historical imagination gives the best insight into the meaning of Kennedy's election, as he himself is known to conceive it. It also gives the best measure of Kennedy's basic problem, which he will begin to try to solve in his inaugural address.

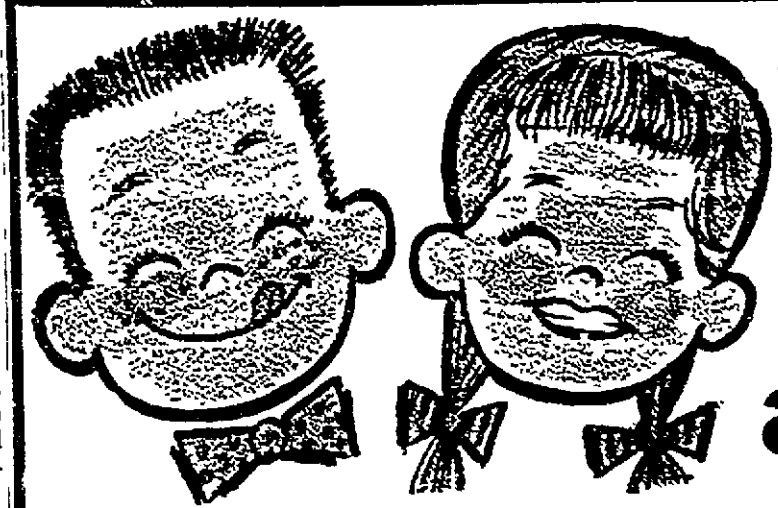

There is another measure of that basic problem prevailing in the new administration. An early Presidential proclamation of a state of limited national emergency has lately been given serious consideration on a high level.

Must Arouse Nation
The idea of such a proclamation originated in the need to find some prompt, nation-arousing substitute for the strengthened defense budget which Secretary of Defense-designate Robert McNamara will not be able to present until he has had time to make detailed decisions. In other words, the basic problem is (or at least is thought to be) arousing the nation to all the dangers and difficulties that now bristle on every side.

The expedient of a proclamation of limited emergency has been set aside as too extreme. For all sorts of reasons, Kennedy does not wish to be flamboyant or inflammatory. Yet there is no doubt that he will try to arouse the nation.

There is no doubt, too, that the nation will instantly put forth greater efforts if Kennedy's call can only carry conviction. That "it" holds the secret of the future.

Honey Meringue Tops Lemon Pie

Lemons and honey are a unique combination welcomed by every member of the family. The tang of the lemon complements the sweetness of honey.

Watch eyes grow bright and listen to the shouts of delight when a pie piled high with snowy, swirling honey meringue is served. It is a pie that is fancy, satisfying, and tempting.

Lemon Honey Chiffon Pie
1/4 cup cold water
4 eggs, separated
1/4 cup honey
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 cup heavy cream

Soften gelatin in the cold water. Combine the slightly beaten egg yolks, one-fourth cup of the honey, salt, lemon juice, and grated lemon peel in the top part of a double boiler. Place over boiling water and cook until of custard consistency, stirring constantly. Add softened gelatin and stir to dissolve. Remove from heat and cool until mixture begins to thicken.

Beat three of the egg whites until stiff and gradually beat in one-fourth cup of the honey. Fold into the custard mixture and turn into baked pastry shell. Chill until firm.

Beat the remaining egg white until stiff and gradually beat in two tablespoons of the remaining honey. Whip the cream until stiff while gradually adding the remaining two tablespoons honey. Combine with the sweetened egg white and spread on pie just before serving.

When you buy canned ripe olives, look at the shape. Oval olives probably are of the Mission variety. Stubby olives, shaped something like apples probably are of the variety named Manzanillo, meaning "little apple."

Small City Businessmen Key Legislative Figures

Neenah, Portage Lawmakers Will Review Budget, Revenue Measures

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Two middle-aged men who have had small town business careers will be the key figures in the 1961 State Legislature as it wrestles with the most difficult financial problems that have faced Wisconsin law-makers in a generation.

Sen. W. A. Draheim of Neenah, 62, and Assemblyman Everett K. Bidwell of Portage, 61, will call to order as co-chairmen the Legislature's Joint Committee on Finance which will be responsible for reviewing the state budget of appropriations that will soon be submitted by Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson, and later the revenue measures the governor will recommend to make good the deficit in revenues already certain to result from his budget.

The two men are Republicans, chosen by their colleagues of the controlling Republican legislative caucuses for two of the most responsible positions in state politics. Under legislative protocol, Sen. Draheim as the representative of the upper house is chairman of the joint committee, but he will rotate presiding duties with his Assembly teammate.

Legislative Veterans
Both men are veterans of legislative service as seniority is measured in the statehouse. Bidwell is starting his fifth two-year term as an assemblyman from his south central Wisconsin county that is solidly Republican. Draheim is finishing his third four-year term as a senator from Winnebago and Calumet Counties which also have a consistent Republican voting tradition.

The two legislative leaders also share the moderate to conservative views of the small cities from which they sprang and which have been the chief bulwark of the Republican party in recent times. While they have shown some independence of thought and action on occasion, they are also regarded as "regulars" within the terms of legislative language.

Bidwell was born in Minnesota and educated there, and earlier in life was a farmer and salesman. For many years he has been a manufacturer of ice cream which is distributed in his Columbia County neighborhood. He is also vice president of a bank and has been a leader in the statewide trade association of dairy manufacturers.

Draheim was born in Neenah and educated there and at Lawrence College. He was employed in local industries for many years and later operated a sporting goods store. For 40 years he was a member of the active and reserve military forces and retired with the rank of colonel in the U.S. Army. He served as a member of the Winnebago County Board before coming to the Legislature in 1950.

Canned Goods Count Made by U. S. Department

Maybe you've never kept count of how many cans of corn or peaches you buy in the course of a year, but the U. S. Department of Agriculture has been doing it for you, using a sample of several thousand families of different sizes, ages and incomes, scattered all over the United States.

The average family, says USDA, bought about four cans of sweet corn, four cans of peas, three cans of snap beans, two and a half cans of peaches and about one can each of pears and fruit cocktail during the year for each person in the family. Most of the canned food was bought in the winter and spring; the least amount during the summer.

Not all families bought all these canned foods. For example, out of 10 families, seven of them bought canned corn and peas during the year; six bought canned peaches and fruit cocktail; five bought canned snap beans; and four out of 10 bought canned pears.

The more money a family had to spend, the more canned peaches, pears, fruit cocktail and snap beans it used. Families in the $4,000 to $6,000 bracket were the biggest buyers of canned corn and peas.

It stands to reason that the more people in a family, the more total cans of food it will take to feed them, but the Department of Agriculture found that the amount of canned food per person decreased as the size of the family increased.

Cottage Cheese Goes With Scrambled Eggs

Cottage cheese adds a tasty fillip to scrambled eggs. For four servings, beat six eggs together with one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon each thyme, marjoram, sweet basil and pepper. Mix in three-fourth cup creamed cottage cheese.

Melt two tablespoons butter in skillet. Add eggs and cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally until eggs are the desired firmness. Serve with Canadian bacon or bacon strips and buttered English muffins.

SHE HAD BROADCAST HASH FOR BREAKFAST- The Breakfast Your Family Needs for Real Get-Up-and-Go!

Millions of people enjoy Broadcast Corned Beef Hash for lunch or dinner because it tastes so good. Now here's proof that it's also the high-protein breakfast your family needs!

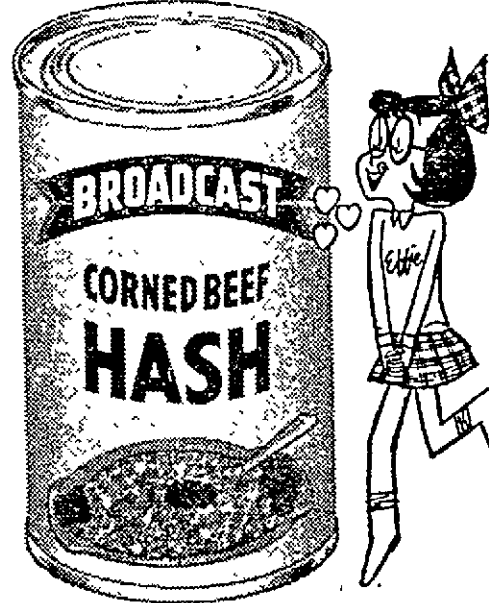

HOW MUCH NUTRITION DOES YOUR FAMILY GET AT BREAKFAST?
ONE SERVING	PROTEIN (grams)	HIGH IN COMPLETE PROTEINS	CARBOHYDRATES (grams)	CALCIUM (milligrams)	IRON (milligrams)	NIACIN (milligrams)	VITAMIN B ₁₂ (micrograms)

All data based on statistics in U. S. Dept. of Agriculture "Composition of Foods" and "Nutritive Value of Foods."

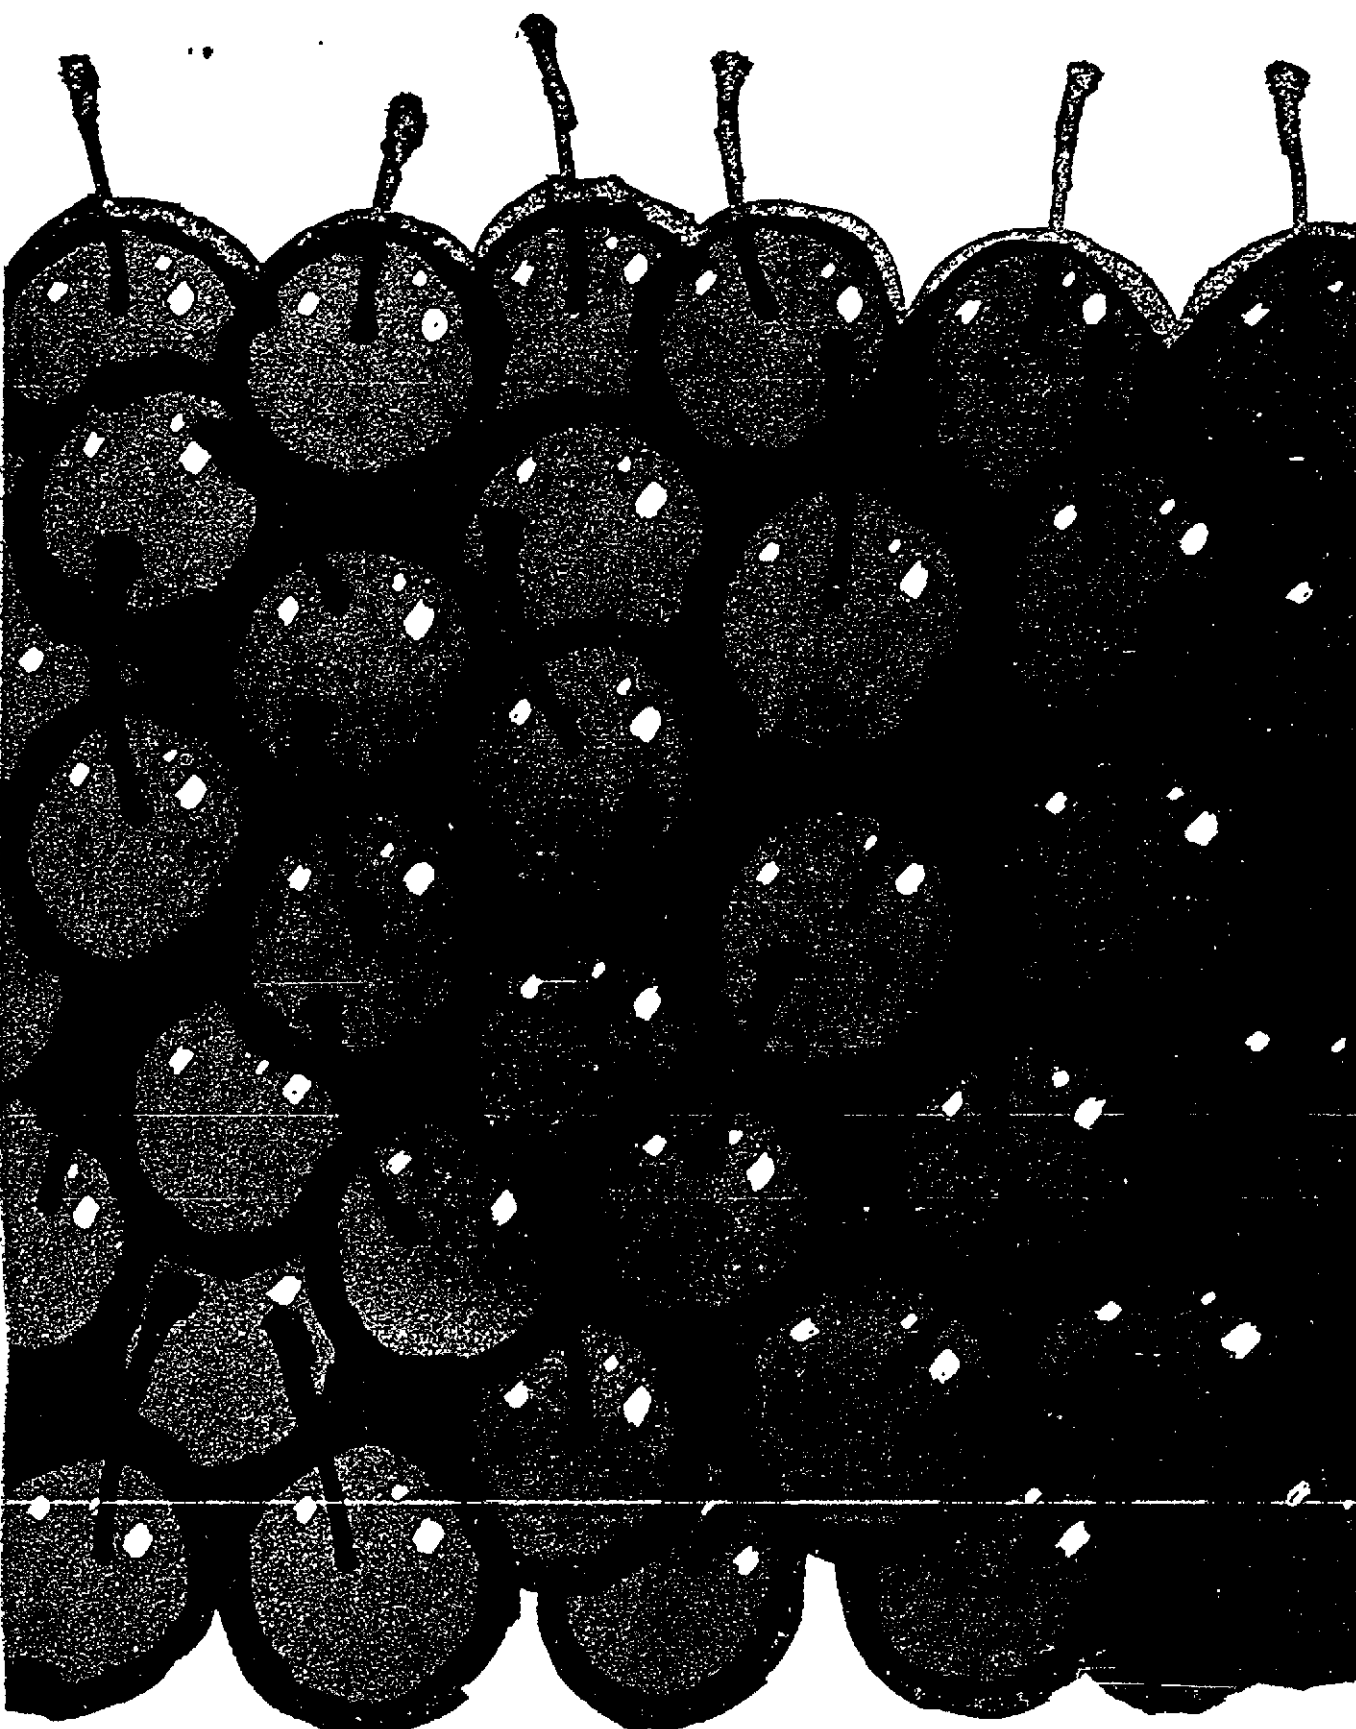

One serving of Broadcast Hash gives you 3 1/2 times more protein than you get from a bowl of shredded or flaked wheat cereal—6 times more protein than you get from a bowl of corn flakes. You've never had a breakfast with so much get-up-and-go!

More proteins... and they're complete proteins! "Enriched" corn flakes, "enriched" wheat flakes, and even oatmeal are deficient in complete proteins. Broadcast Hash gives you plenty of complete proteins. Plus natural vitamins. And just enough carbohydrates for energy, but not enough to "overload" your system.

So easy to fix, too. Just open the can, heat, and serve. Fork-break the hash in a skillet and brown it. Or slice into 3 or 4 slabs and pop them under the broiler. Great as is. Great with an egg on top. Either way, it's a breakfast with get-up-and-go!

Many Varieties of Meat Good Buys This Week

This looks like a good weekend in Fox Cities stores for shoppers with an eye out for good buys in a variety of meats.

Chickens remain a good buy, as they have for some time, but many stores are featuring other types of meat that haven't been in the "bargain" category for some time.

Beef lovers will find round steak from 69 to 79 cents a pound in many stores, with sirloin as low as 69 cents and T-Bones at from 79 to 99 cents a pound. Thick-sliced bacon is being advertised at two pounds for 89 cents and several stores have ground beef featured at 39 cents a pound. Ground beef prices vary considerably, depending largely on the proportion of lean meat, so price is not the only thing to watch when purchasing it.

Ham butts are being sold at 39 cents a pound and baby beef liver is featured at from 37 to 43 cents.

Cornish game hens weighing 20 to 22 ounces are 69 cents apiece.

Eggs Lower

Egg prices continue to tumble, and ungraded are as low as 39 cents a dozen. Other stores have Grade A white eggs for from 45 to 49 cents a dozen.

Those who like fish will find excellent halibut steaks at 39 cents a pound.

Fresh fruit is plentiful and inexpensive. Tangerines are as low as two dozen for 29 cents, but size, and ungraded are as low as 39 cents a dozen. Other stores have Grade A white eggs for from 45 to 49 cents a dozen.

Junior High Schoolers Get Voting Training

SHAKOR HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — Youngsters at Woodbury Junior High School are given a chance to participate in a realistic election as part of their citizenship training.

Dr. Donald A. Wesley of the social studies department explained in a recent issue of the Ohio Education Association's magazine that there is a residence requirement (a month) for new students, permanent registration to vote during all three years of attendance, voting booths furnished by the city, student election workers and close adherence to adult voting procedures.

Power Firm Cites Veteran Employees

W. E. Schubert, vice president and general manager of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Company, discussed the role of the individual in an increasingly complex and technological society at the 36th annual dinner meeting of the company's Veterans' Association.

About 160 people attended the dinner honoring employees who have completed 20 or more years with the firm.

New members initiated into the association are Otto R. Boll, Edgar H. Borsche, William L. Burge, Harold E. Kane, Milton G. Kranzsch, Lester J. Lausman, Carlton L. Raisher, and Harry E. Selig.

Employees honored for having completed 40 years service during 1960 are Ervin J. Bogan, Albert W. Krueger, Marie M. Lewandowski and William A. Schroeder.

Harold Pasch is new president of the association.

assembly term. He started his career as a member of the former Progressive party.

Assemblyman G. J. Hipke of Calumet County, a canning company owner in private life, won the chairmanship of the Assembly Committee on Commerce and Manufacturers in his second term.

Bidwell Old-Timer

But Blanchard could point to the superior seniority of Assemblyman Everett Bidwell of Columbia County when he made the difficult choice for the chairmanship of the key Assembly Finance Committee. Bidwell is serving his fifth term, which is considerably more service than can be shown by others who submitted their candidacies for that committee chair to the new house speaker.

Long service evidently also played a part in Blanchard's selection of Richard Peterson of Clintonville, a sixth term, as head of the important Assembly Judiciary Committee, and Assemblyman Elmer Genzmer, a 14th term, as chairman of the Labor Committee.

But he made an exception again when he picked Assemblyman Floyd Shurburt of rural Winnebago County for the frequently difficult and controversial job as head of the Committee on Excises and Fees, to which are referred most of the matters affecting liquor, beer and tavern regulations and taxes that reach the Legislature. Shurburt is beginning his second Assembly term.

Old Political Rule Illustrated Assembly Chairmen Not Picked In Strict Accord With Seniority

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The organization of the 1961 Wisconsin Assembly under its new Republican commanders illustrates a rule of Wisconsin politics — that a quick way to rise in state affairs is to win a place in the lower house of the State Legislature on the majority party side.

The rules of seniority are not as closely observed in the Assembly as in the Wisconsin State Senate or in other legislative bodies elsewhere in the country, including the U.S. Congress.

In naming his chief committee chairmen, Assembly Speaker David Blanchard handed gavels to several men who are far junior to others who were passed over by the house presiding officer. Often such decisions are based upon personal political alliances. Blanchard, like other speakers, rewarded those of his friends who were early backers of his campaign for the speakership.

Colleagues Chosen

iam of Janesville is chairman of the house Committee on Agriculture. Assemblyman George Beloit of Beloit is head of the Taxation Committee.

But the lower house leadership is also less bound by the traditional seniority concept in recognizing the aptitudes and specialties of young or new men over the claims of those of longer service.

Thus Kenneth Priebe, the Appleton assemblyman, won the considerable rank of chairman of the Assembly Committee on Insurance and Banking in his second term. There are many men on the majority side in the Assembly with far more seniority who did not win chairmanships.

Second Term

Walter Terry of Sauk County, chairman of the Public Welfare Committee, is also a second term, and Bert Lewison of Vernon County, chairman of the transportation Committee, and Kyle Kenyon of Monroe County, chief of the Veterans Affairs Committee, are starting their third terms.

One hardened veteran of the political wars beat off several rivals for the prize chairmanship of the Assembly Committee on Highways, always regarded as one of the most desirable plums in legislative politics.

He is Hugh Harper, a 75 year old retired farmer from Grant County, who is serving his 10th

Sees Guessing Game in New U. S. Budget

Implied in Both Spending, Income Sides of Ledger

BY SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — The budget that President Eisenhower submitted to Congress Monday opens up a guessing game rather than setting a final guide for taxpayers and business.

The guesses are implied in both the spending and income sides of the ledger.

In spending there's always the question of what Congress will finally do with any presidential budget. Added this time is the uncertainty of the task force reports to President-elect John F. Kennedy.

If all their suggestions were adopted spending would rise well above the $80.9 billion the outgoing President calls necessary, and which itself is 92 billion more than in the current fiscal year.

In receipts, his estimate of $82.3 billion will be obtained only if the current business slide is reversed so that tax collections will swell, and only if Congress votes higher gas taxes and increased postal rates.

Guess How Much

So the budget leaves business and the taxpayer about where they were — that is, guessing how much the Kennedy administration will want to spend, how much Congress will approve, and how far the business slackness is likely to go and when a recovery can be expected.

The taxpayer, and that includes both individuals and business, is concerned in what happens to the budget because ultimately the bills have to be met. And if the Treasury doesn't achieve the $1.5-billion surplus that President Eisenhower hopes for, but runs up a deficit instead, both individuals and business could be under revived inflationary pressures.

Business is further concerned because just how much the government spends and for what it puts out its money vitally affect many companies and whole industries. Eventually this widens out to take in most of the economy.

Public Debt

Studying the proposed budget, business notes that only two items call for less spending in fiscal 1962 than in the current fiscal year. These are interest on the public debt, down because interest rates are down, not because of any drop in the total debt; and for commerce, housing and space technology.

Everything else is up. Defense spending is up $1.5 billion, but this was expected. So was the increase in outlay for veterans services and benefits. President Eisenhower wants more for foreign aid than Congress voted for this fiscal year.

Purely civilian projects that are asking more money for the next fiscal year are labor and welfare, agriculture and agricultural resources, natural resources, and general government costs.

Social Security

Some projects don't come under the regular budget at all. These are the sums collected and spent for such endeavors as Social Security, jobless payments and superhighways.

Adding these, the total cash to be spent in fiscal 1962 becomes $101.8 billion, or $3.9 billion more than this year. And the total money expected to be collected from the public becomes $193.1 billion, or $4.1 billion more than this year.

These are figures that business studies, since they furnish a better idea of how much government will will withdraw from the public's pockets and just how much could be available sooner or later to business either in government orders, or in cash in the pockets of those who get salaries, or payment from the government.

Hospital Fund Drive Passes $224,000 Mark

KAUKAUNA — The hospital fund drive to finance the wing for the Kaukauna Community Hospital has reached $224,303, just $897 short of the $225,000 goal established.

It appears the drive will now hit its mark, probably before the end of the month.

Brownie Girl Scout Troop 357, Kaukauna, made a $5 donation to help the cause and should this idea spread, such small organizations could mean the difference in reaching the goal.

The group meets monthly and annually holds a session with members of boards of directors from the hospitals. Other officers include Fred Eggers, Chilton, president elect, and the Rev. Elmer Harvey, Green Bay Belin Memorial, secretary and treasurer.

The council consists of administrators from 14 hospitals in five counties and purpose of the organization is to set up hospital policies, work for improvements in hospital services and benefits, compare operations and assist one another in finding personnel needed to fill specific vacancies in hospital staffs.

Views Civil Rights Like Use of Muscle

Political Science Professor Speaks To Menasha Rotary

MENASHA — Those who do not wish to hold a stand in controversial matters spoil things for themselves and others, declared Dr. F. Thompson, a political science professor assigned to the University of Wisconsin — Fox Valley Center.

Dr. Thompson, guest speaker at Wednesday noon's Menasha Rotary Club luncheon meeting, warned: "We won't have freedom of speech and a free press and our other freedoms if we don't use them."

Rights and privileges must be exercised or they will atrophy from disuse, as muscles, he told the Rotarians.

His topic was "A Conservative View of Civil Rights." Government should be the people's instrument, not the reverse. Dr. Thompson decried those conservatives who are anxious to cling to social customs which have served too long.

On the southern sit-in strikes, the professor distinguished private property and public responsibility and noted that private businesses were under public protection while serving the public. Thus they may not rightfully differentiate among the citizens they serve on the basis of skin color or other criterion.

Dr. Thompson also predicted that if full integration comes about, in time some intermarriage of Caucasians and Negroes will result. Southerners look at this idea more clearly and fearfully than northerners, and the latter are seeking to block the intermarriages which may prevail.

"Political pressure and influence in hiring has a tendency to lower the caliber and efficiency and should be resisted as much as possible."

City Employees Get 3½ Pct. Pay Hike, Effective Jan. 1

Aldermen Also Boost Own Salaries $15 Starting in April

NEENAH — A 3½ per cent salary increase for city employees and a $15 a month salary increase for aldermen were voted by the Council Wednesday night with the city attorney being instructed to draw up the proper ordinance for presentation at the next council meeting.

The employee raises will be retroactive to Jan. 1 and the increase for aldermen, bringing their salary up to $90 a month, will be effective in April with the seating of new councilmen.

Maximum salary in each employee work grade will be increased by the 3½ per cent, while the minimum pay in each grade will be raised in dollar value to equal the per cent increase at the top. This is to keep the same dollar spread between minimum and maximum grade pay the same as it is now.

Why 3½ Per Cent?

Seventh Ward Ald. Kenneth Parman wanted to know how the 3½ per cent figure was arrived at. Ald. Warren Sanders, chairman of the finance committee, said that no scientific formula was used and that various amounts were discussed.

However, he said, municipal jobs offered more security than jobs in industry and his committee wanted to do all it could for city employees.

Parmen, the only alderman to vote against the proposal, later said he felt a 4 per cent raise should have been voted. He said that last from two to six hours, state employees got that amount. "And, if he is conscientious, he and they (city employees) have to do some home work."

Annual Cost

In answer to a question from Ald. Paul Hansen, Mayor Chester S. Bell said the pay increase would roughly cost the city $25,000 a year.

Examine Written Tests For Police Applicants

2 Teachers to Help Menasha Commission As Aid in Personnel Procurement

MENASHA — Written tests for prospective policemen given in other cities were scrutinized Wednesday, then referred by the Police and Fire Commission to two public school teachers for study.

The commission held a special session to examine, and compare Menasha's police department written test. Criticism recently has been directed at the commission for the alleged ease of the local test.

One alderman, after examining the Menasha department's test this week, snorted: "A third grader could have passed this one."

H. O. Griffith, trades and industry coordinator, and John Novokoski, junior high school principal and a former commissioner, will report on the testing procedure.

Outline Basic Tests Griffith outlined three basic tests the local Vocational School can offer — on intelligence quotient (IQ), practical judgment and temperament.

Griffith advised, "You don't want to use the tests and say 'that's it.' There are other criteria. Sometimes too much stress is laid on tests."

Commission Pres. P. J. Gazecki said, "We are satisfied with the questions we have now. But we are criticized by the city attorney and council."

Further in the meeting, Gazecki commented on local personnel procurement, "high school graduates seem the limit. The starting pay is quite low. We can't get the best qualified applicants and have to make the best of the material we get. We've been bucking this in the 15 years I've been on the commission."

Cumulation Records Novokoski pointed out that the local schools maintain cumulative records on each student. Included are grades, test results, IQ, aptitudes and teachers' notations on the students. "By the end of 12 years we have a good source of information on the individual."

Test questions under study are from Neenah, Appleton, Oshkosh and Milwaukee.

By commission motion offered both policemen and firemen would be considered, and new type medical reports also may be formulated, on recommendation of the city physician.

Special courses the local vocational school can arrange for police and firemen would be first aid, fire department training, human relations, supervision and publicity and communication. Others can be arranged to fit the local situation, Griffith added.

Oshkosh Library Bids Below Estimated Cost

Appleton, Waupaca Contractors in Those Accepted for $1,063,799 College Facility

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Low bids for construction of a new library at Oshkosh State College opened here Wednesday were comfortably within the budgeted estimates of construction costs, College Director E. R. McPhee reported.

The total of the construction bids received was $1,063,799. The state college board had budgeted a total of $1,500,000 for the complete project, including furnishings and fixtures, planning fees, and some land costs.

McPhee said construction can probably begin within a few weeks and that completion is planned by July of 1962.

The structure will be the most important of the new basic facilities provided at the Oshkosh college in recent years. The school is now the largest and most rapidly growing in the nine college state system.

Low Bidders

Low bidder on the general construction contract was Jim Cullen of Janesville, with $674,459.

August Winters and Sons of Appleton was reported low bidder on the heating and ventilation installations at $198,000, and E. H. Peters of Omro was low on the plumbing bid with $32,342.

Uptown Electric Co. of Waupaca was low bidder for the electrical contract at $143,800, and the low bidder for the installation of elevators was A. Kiechefer Elevator Co. of Milwaukee with $15,198.

The library will contain about 87,000 square feet of space, and will house about 430,000 books in addition to governmental documents. There will be temporary

Area Dairy Farmers Use Test Records

Improving Herds By Culling Poor Milk Producers

OSHKOSH — Records of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association of Winnebago County indicate that 394 dairy farmers of the county are using test records to guide them in improving their herds.

Improvement over the years is by culling out poor producers, a guide for feeding based on production and a basis for selection of breeding stock and management practices.

Last year 82 herds were on standard test, a program recognized as official since a fieldman supervises the milk sampling and weighing from each cow. These 2,103 cows averaged 11,427 pounds of milk and 434 pounds of butterfat.

Wisconsin's average for cows on DHIA test, with 82,486 cows being tested, was 420 pounds of butterfat and 11,058 pounds of milk. Both the county and state butterfat average test was 3.8 per cent. The national average for cows on test in 1959 was 10,327 pounds of milk and 401 pounds of butterfat while in 1950 the average was 9,172 pounds of milk and 370 pounds of butterfat. In 1910 the average was 5,730 pounds of milk and 227 pounds of butterfat with 25,000 cows on test.

Summer, Winter Sailor Can Chart Fashionable, Practical Cruise Course

AP Newsfeatures

Once upon a time no woman ever went sailing before summer unless her ship came in. Today we know that this is just a fairy tale.

What with jet travel, pay-later plans, and winter vacation schedules, nearly every working girl can set her sights on a cruise, whether or not, good fortune or modest.

Once upon a time too females aboard ship were considered bad luck. Undoubtedly, this was because the ladies then were at sea about what to wear.

Even today any landlubber putting on sea legs for the first time can be unlucky if she does not wear the proper attire. Women loathe to forsake their usual garments in favor of nautical wear, alternately burn and freeze, lose their hats, and get their billowing skirts tangled in the tackle.

Fortunately today's fashionmakers are charting a safe and practical course for cruising. They've been on boats, too, so that they know that a shipshape wardrobe must be:

Weather-Controlled

A rich suntan is part of the rewards of sailing, but dangerous burns happen faster with the salty breezes to help. Consequently, a cover-up jacket for sunsuit and swim suit is a must for the duffle bag.

Licking hot weather changes to chill, all winds quicker than it takes the sun to duck behind a cloud. Therefore, a smart sailor needs something wooly warm to slip on or wrap around.

All hands on deck get soaked regularly. But many fabrics used for cruisewear are chemically treated to ignore the salty dew like ducks' backs.

Whether the she-sailor helps hoist the sails or casts a line for some helpless fish on board with her, her clothes have to be practical.

On a boat any size she must stretch, step, slide, leap and jump around a slippery deck with the wind whipping at her all the time. This fast action modestly calls for shorts, culottes or clam digger plus toppers and jackets with plenty of underarm leeway for movement.

A wet deck also requires true canvas boat sneakers with non-slip rubber soles.

Glamorous

Of course a tourist matey can be glamorous as well as practical. Vibrant color that rival the sun and sea do the trick. Denims, sail cloth, terrycloth, cotton and wool jerseys, some miraculously stretchable, are fabrics that lean on color contrast for design.

A few florals sneak into the bathing suit picture but generally the pattern of fashion are bold blocks, triangles and wide stripes makes a lady sailor a pretty sight in anyone's periscope.

With these go hats, caps, or scarves, gay hair-cover-ups that preserve a girl's hard-earned coiffure.

Generally, a good she-seafarer leaves her make-up at home, and substitutes instead her suntan oil. Whatever she brings it must be as lightweight and as little as possible.

Sailing is not roughing it really. It can go smoothly indeed for the smart vacationer who gets her signals straight and picks her wardrobe well.

Traffic Routing Signs Ordered for Main St.

At Wisconsin Ave., Commercial St.

NEENAH — Traffic signs will be posted on Main Street, east of the Soo Line railroad tracks, to route southbound and Oak Street bridge traffic over Torrey Wisconsin Avenue.

Fara Dinius
Street and Columbian Avenue. Council action Wednesday night was at the recommendation of the public protection committee.

In conjunction with the traffic routing signs, the council approved putting up stop signs on Church Street at Columbian, requiring Church Street traffic to stop.

Light Cycle
The reason for the signs, Ald. Pete Fara, chairman of the public protection committee said, was to alleviate some of the congestion around Commercial Street and Wisconsin Avenue.

Ald. James Dinius asked if something couldn't be done about the traffic light cycle at Columbian Avenue and S. Commercial. He said he had received many complaints about the length of time Columbian Avenue traffic has to wait.

Fara said this has been discussed and his committee intends to take action.

Dinius also wanted to know if yield right-of-way signs at Columbian and Church would better serve the purpose than stop signs.

Fara agreed that yield right-of-way signs were effective but they wanted Columbian to be a through street.

Limit Parking
Also approved was a recommendation limiting parking in the city hall lots between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. to city employees and to 30 minute visitor parking.

Aldermen Wilnot Haupt, Aaron Dix' and Kenneth Parman voted against the proposal.

City Clerk R. V. Hauser was authorized to advertise for bids on a four-wheel drive truck and a regular pickup truck, although only one truck will be purchased.

At the same time, Fara asked that Chief of Police Irving Stille and Wayne Bryan, director of public works, get together and draw up specifications on the two models.

The police department had requested a four-wheel drive truck to pull the department's emergency trailer. Fara said his committee also would like information on a conventional vehicle.

Buy Tractor
Recommendations from the street and sanitation committee for purchase of tractor-mower and an end loader were approved.

The low bid from the Paynter Co. of $2,215.75 for a tractor mower was accepted as was a bid of $10,420 for a four-wheel drive end loader from the Milwaukee firm.

The Mobil Oil Co. submitted low bid for gasoline for the city for six months at 13-12 cents a gallon for regular and 16.09 a gallon for high test.

Neenah Tangles With Kimberly; Jays Visit CHS

Rockets Attempt to Snare Share of Conference Lead

NEENAH — Neenah will try to on top at any time this year since stake a claim to part of the Mid-Eastern Conference lead in a Friday night home struggle against five straight league games but be unbeaten Kimberly. Menasha at-tween Nos. 3 and 4 they suffered tempts to gain some lost prestige a non-conference setback to Ap-when it invades Clintonville. pleton. Kimberly has won eight in Both Twin City clubs return to a row. Saturday evening, Menasha again is on the road, this time at Kaukauna, and Neenah at home against New London. Neenah had chances to move into a tie for first the last couple of weeks through the combination of a win and a Kimberly loss but the Papermakers' opponents didn't oblige the Twin Citizens. The Rockets hope to make the direct approach a successful one this weekend. Neenah hasn't been

Shiocton to Meet Wolves In Little Nine

LITTLE NINE CONFERENCE
	W	L
Shiocton	7	1	Omro
Hortonville	6	2	Reedsville
Dyckman	5	3	Winneconne
Hilbert	5	3	Bear Creek
Freedom	4	4	Wrightstown

Friday Games:
Denmark at Reedsville.
Wrightstown at Freedom.
Hortonville at Hilbert.
Bear Creek at Omro.
Winneconne at Shiocton.

Fast moving Winneconne will provide the next hurdle for league leading Shiocton in the feature Little Nine Conference game Friday night.

Other games will have second ranked Hortonville at Hilbert, Denmark will be at Reedsville, Wrightstown at Freedom, and Bear Creek at Omro.

Winneconne has won three straight games to climb out of the league cellar. Most impressive of the victories was a key upset of Hortonville, knocking the Polar Bears out of a tie for first place.

The Wolves have averaged 55.6 points in their last three games and hit a season high of 69 against Bear Creek last week.

Hortonville needs a victory over Hilbert to stay in contention for the league title. Hilbert also has been on the upswing, copping three of its last four starts.

Denmark, still in the title picture with a 5-3 record, will try for win No. 6 against Reedsville. The latter saw a three game win streak stopped by Hilbert last week. The Danes have three victories after a loss to Shiocton.

Rivals Wrightstown and Freedom will meet on the Irish court with Freedom fighting to stay in the first division after three straight defeats.

Wrightstown, despite the potent scoring of Dan Lamers has been able to record only one victory this season. In the first meeting between the two teams, Freedom eked out a 45-44 win.

Omro will be out to move up a notch in the standings with a win over Bear Creek.

Highest - Scoring Tilt

If Friday's game is anything like the last meeting, the basket-cords are sure to singe. In that fracas, the Rockets emerged a 94-69 victor in the highest-scoring game in conference history.

Both clubs have 6-5 pivotmen. Kimberly, Tom Rooyackers, Neenah's, Dave Burton. They have good sized forwards but the Papermaker guards have a height advantage over the Rockets' Doug Ankerson and Dave Neubauer, both under 5-10.

Both clubs have good offenses. Kimberly ranks first in the conference with the Rockets second. The Papermakers have exceeded the 80-point mark twice and 70 on three other occasions. Neenah has topped the 60-point mark in eight of 10 games.

Kimberly also has the better defensive slate although the Rockets have limited their last two foes to a total of 94 points. One Papermaker foe, Milwaukee North has bettered 60 points while six of Neenah opponents have made 60 or more.

Jays Eye 4-3 Mark

Menasha (3-3) meets a Clintonville club which hasn't quite lived up to expectations. The Truckers won the jayvee title last year but currently are two games below the .500 mark at 2-4. Their 6-6 center George Greeley hasn't scored consistently but guard Dick Bennett, shaking off the effects of a football injury, has started to come and dropped in 20 of his club's 42 points in the upset loss to Kaukauna.

Coach Clem Massey hopes his Jays can rectify many of the mistakes which contributed to their loss by Shawano last week. In addition to frequent bad passes, Menasha had the misfortune of fouling the Indians' Rog Prickett too often and he made 11 of 13 free throws.

Macs Schedule Annual Session; Plan Election

MENASHA — The Menasha Athletic Association's annual meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Eagles Club.

Reports will be made on the year's activities. Five directors will be named to the board and they and the holdover directors will elect the 1961 officers.

Carl Borse, Sheboygan theatrical agent, will speak to the members on promotions. The women's auxiliary will meet for the first time Sunday and also will name its officers. The annual session also kicks off the membership drive for both groups.

When Menasha Visits Clintonville Friday night one of its starting forwards will be Bill Ritchie, a senior letterman.
